WALL OF WATER SWEEPS ON OKLAHOMA CITY

CITY RESERVOIR BANKS GIVE WAY EARLY IN MORNING

15,000 PERSONS POURED FROM THEIR HOMES IN LOWLANDS TO HIGHER GROUND

ADDED TO FLOOD MENACE IS THE THREAT OF A WATER FAMINE IMMINENT

(By United Press)
Oklahoma City, Oct. 16.—A wall of water, released by the breaking of the banks of the city reservoir, swept down the North Canadian river valley into Oklahoma City today, flooding scores of homes and lowland districts.

Flood waters raised seven feet within 30 minutes after the torrent was released by the reservoir breaking.

Ambulances, fire department automobiles and heavy trucks roared through the streets at midnight with sirens shrieking, warning people of the oncoming flood.

Fifteen thousand persons poured from their homes in the lowlands of the southern section of the city during the dark hours of the early morning and rushed through the streets to high ground on the north side. Mayor O. A. Cargill ordered a district of more than 100 city blocks vacated when the reservoir water broke from control.

Steady streams of pedestrians, women carrying young children, husbands and older children with hastily packed bundles of clothes and food, hurried through the congested streets.

Many were in tears as they left their homes.

On orders of Governor J. C. Walton national guardsmen were ordered in to the vacated districts to protect homes against looters.

Ambulances took the sick and aged to city hospitals, which were crowded to capacity.

All extra street cars were put into service and operated to the edge of the flooded districts to aid in transporting refugees to safe sections of the city.

Water Famine Threatens
Added to the flood menace was the threat of a water famine. With the main reservoir gone, only emergency tanks remained, and it was feared these supplies would be quickly exhausted.

Emergency relief stations set up in the flood zone were forced to move to higher ground when the rapid rise of the water started.

Hundreds of homes were under water and many near the main channel of the flooded street were washed away, according to police.

The river reached a record stage when it passed the 25-foot crest at 6 a. m.

River a Raging Monster
The ordinarily placid little stream had been converted into a raging monster by general downpours thru the western section of the state during the last two weeks.

During the early part of last night the reservoir wall, reinforced by hundreds of men working feverishly, withstood a rise of several feet in the river. However, the little stream finally cut through the bank and the water ate rapidly into the dirt embankment.

Today's Flood Breaks All Records
Oklahoma City has experienced numerous floods, one this spring causing damage of $15,000,000, but today's broke all records.

The business district has never been flooded, but a warning was sent out to merchants that the water may reach the main business houses.

Fear was expressed that the river, which normally makes a horseshoe bend around the business district, may cut a channel through the main streets.

Many Buildings Flooded
Approximately 100 buildings were flooded as the flood passed through the city at 8 a. m. Across the little area between the city proper and the main channel the flood was 15 feet

CHICAGOAN HAS NOT MISSED BIBLE CLASS IN 1,704 SUNDAYS

Chicago, Oct. 16.—George P. Wiley has attended Sunday school 1,704 consecutive Sundays for 35 years without missing a single Sunday, he disclosed yesterday. This betters by 10 years the record in press dispatches of John G. Brittingham of Salisbury, Md., having a perfect 25-year record at Sunday school.

"I've been forced to walk many miles, to ride a bicycle, to ride a horse and to row a boat to make it on some occasions," said Mr. Wiley.

CHINA REVERSES KIDNAPING STAND

REPLY TO POWERS MEETS STIPULATIONS DESIGNED TO PROTECT FOREIGNERS

Peking, Oct. 16.—China's reply to the second note of the diplomatic corps regarding the Lincheng bandit outrage, delivered to the legations, reverses the former uncompromising attitude of the Peking government toward some demands.

It meets in large measure the stipulations designed by the powers to provide greater security for foreigners.

The Chinese government has issued a mandate dismissing from office Tien Chun (military governor) Tien Chung Yu, under whose jurisdiction the Lincheng bandits operated last May when they held up an express train and kidnaped numerous foreigners. This disposes of one moot point in the negotiations.

China previously had declined to admit the right of the foreign nations to demand punishment of officials deemed culpable.

GULF HURRICANE IS RAGING TODAY

Pensacola, Fla., Oct. 16.—The gulf hurricane which has been brewing for two days struck along the Louisiana-Florida coast today.

At Pensacola the wind was blowing from 54 to 60 miles an hour this morning, and there was an unusually high tide in the harbor.

No damage was reported, however.

48 MILES AN HOUR
GALE AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, Oct. 16.—A gale which reached 48 miles an hour down the mouth of the Mississippi struck southern Louisiana today.

Tides in Lake Pontchartrain and Borgne rose rapidly, flooding lake suburbs and villages.

Many were forced to flee from their homes to escape the tides.

WINNING PLAYERS WILL GET $6,278.93

New York, Oct. 16.—Players on the Yankee baseball club which won the world's series championship, figuring 26 eligible players to the team, will get $6,278.93 each, and the players on the losing Giants club will get about $4,185 each. This is considerably more than the players got last year, when the Giants got $4,470 each as the winners.

As their share of the receipts for finishing second in the pennant race, the Cincinnati Reds and the Detroit Tigers will divide $54,417.46, and the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Cleveland Indians will divide $36,278.30 for finishing in third place.

The players share only in the receipts of the first four games.

The river was reported falling 10 miles above the city and officials expressed the belief that the worst would be over by late afternoon.

POLICE FIX THEIR BAYONETS, CHARGE 500 UNEMPLOYED

GERMANY SCENE OF MANY FOOD RIOTS THROUGHOUT THE REPUBLIC

CROWD BREAKS INTO BAKERIES IN WISSENSTRASSE, THOMASSTRASSE, ETC.

Berlin, Oct. 16.—Five thousand hungry unemployed stormed the main city hall in Alexanderplatz today in one of the most menacing demonstrations since the food shortage became so acute.

At least ten are known to have been injured when police cordons advanced on the mob and drove the most daring of the demonstrators back five blocks from the building.

Still determined, the crowd rushed to the Bourse, where brokers were seen hurriedly leaving the building and seeking refuge in less conspicuous places.

Wilhelmstrasse was closed today as a precautionary measure. Disturbances are reported in several suburbs of the capital, particularly in Neu Koeln, where three were wounded in food riots.

Berlin, Oct. 16.—Food riots brought frequent clashes between mobs and police throughout the country today. Officers fired over the heads of a hundred hungry unemployed in the northern section of Berlin, dispersing them without bloodshed. In the suburb of Schoenberg police fixed bayonets and prepared to charge when 500 unemployed menaced the city hall in their demand for advance payments of the unemployment dole.

Crowds broke into bakeries in Wissenstrasse, Thomasstrasse and Hermanstrasse and looted them for food.

Police in Hardt, according to dispatches received here today, were helpless against the hungry, pressing crowds, and occupying troops had to be called out, using billy clubs and firing warning shots to clear the streets.

Leaders Arrested
Timely arrest of leaders prevented serious consequences from food rioting in Koenigsburg, where police cordons were menaced. At Frankfurt the grain exchange closed after a threat had been made against the grain operators.

As an example to the government, President Ebert notified the treasury he would relinquish all his expense money for October. His salary for the month was fixed at 150 milliard marks and his expenses at a similar dollar rate were to be about 4 milliard marks. His action is considered a great sacrifice, as despite free rent and other allowances the president's income barely covers his needs.

Cries of "Give us Bread, Not Bullets"
Cries of "Give us bread, not bullets," mingled with curses at the police and snatches of the red anthem "Internationale" were heard as the mobs pressed about the police against the city hall.

Demonstrators in huge and rapidly growing crowds suddenly broke and charged police, only to be met with drawn bayonet-like daggers. Ten leaders were wounded.

Reserves of police were rushed from headquarters and formed great phalanxes that plowed in old army massed formation into the tattered throng.

The crowd hesitated. Some of the calmer spirits demanded to see the burgomaster.

YANKEES ARE NOW HODLING WORLD'S BASEBALL THRONE

(By United Press)
New York, Oct. 16.—World champions for the first time in history, the New York Yankees are now holding the throne occupied for two years by the proud Giants of John McGraw.

The Yankees are real champions by a hard-earned, well-deserved victory over the best team in the National league.

With the game heart that carried them through seven innings of the final contest when Art Nehf was making their big guns puff like pop-guns, the Yankees crashed through in the eighth inning and won the deciding game at 6 to 4.

RAIN CHECKS FOREST FIRES

FIRES REPORTED ALONG SOO LINE BETWEEN DULUTH AND CASS LAKE

(By United Press)
St. Paul, Oct. 16.—Strong winds which late yesterday fanned forest fires into new fury also brought rain and relief.

During most of the night a light drizzle fell in many of the fire areas. While the rain was not heavy enough to extinguish the fires it helped to check them.

Dozens of brush, peat and swamp grass fires that had been controlled swept beyond rangers' fire lines as the wind developed a velocity of 30 miles and more at times. Forestry officials said the southwest wind was the "very worst kind" for forest fires. At night, however, the wind diminished and rain came.

Along the Soo Line between Duluth and Cass Lake there were a number of uncontrolled fires. Several other serious fires were reported beyond Bemidji around Cass Lake and in a semi-circle from northeast to northwest and Mille Laes. There were many fires in Carlton and Pine counties, and St. Louis county is dotted with fires from the Superior National Forest to Duluth.

RAIN FALLS IN NORTH WOODS

Duluth, Minn., Oct. 16.—Rain fell throughout the north woods area today and checked forest fires that menaced yesterday.

Forestry officials said the rain averted possible disaster.

Strong winds yesterday drove the grass and brush fires into seething furnaces in all northern Minnesota and Wisconsin. Hundreds of new fires got beyond control of farmers who started burning brush and grass after two inches of snowfall Sunday. The snow disappeared quickly with the warmth yesterday and the fires were sweeping up.

Rain last night checked the fires, forestry officials said. The entire section was alarmed as the strong winds continued, but the rain brought relief.

Reports here said that a quarter of an inch of rain fell as far south as Bemidji, checking fires. While the wind is still blowing strong, the atmosphere is damp and officials believe fire fighters will be able to hold their own today.

Should the rain keep up for a day or two, forest fire danger for this year will be past, they believe. Cold weather and snow is expected later in the week.

again fiery leaders in front balked before pressure. The police threatened to fire. As they prepared, the crowd scattered. Gradually the crowd left from the side streets of the vicinity.

Government leaders, fearing a general outbreak, ordered the closing of all big Federal buildings along the Wilhelmstrasse.

Guards quickly closed doors and barred windows.

NEW BOAT OPENS EPOCH ON LAKES; DOCKS FROM N. Y.

McDOUGALL FREIGHTER MAKES TRIP FROM SEABOARD TO DULUTH IN 10 DAYS

MUCH INTEREST AROUSED IN MAIDEN TRIP OF THE BOAT IN THE EAST

Duluth, Oct. 16.—Opening a new epoch in freight transportation between the Atlantic seaboard and the head of the lakes, the electric-driven freight ship, Twin Ports, of the Minnesota-Atlantic Transit company, owned by the McDougall Terminal Warehouse company and under the command of Capt. Fred McDougall of Detroit, docked at the McDougall warehouse in Duluth at 3 a. m. Monday, after making the trip direct from New York in 10 days with no transfer of cargo.

Much interest has been aroused by the maiden trip of the boat, both in New York and throughout the northwest. The boat was delayed two days in leaving New York, because of the interest shown by eastern shippers, who gave the boat additional cargo after it was ready to sail, according to H. T. Hoopes, manager of the company.

In addition to hundreds of Duluthians who thronged the boat all day Monday, a party of Twin Cities' shippers and businessmen, headed by John Losie, general freight agent in Minneapolis of the Minnesota-Atlantic Transit company, made a trip to Duluth in three special cars to inspect the freighter.

2,600-Ton Capacity

The Twin Ports is 258 feet long and 42 feet wide, and has a capacity of 2,600 tons. On the maiden trip it brought to Duluth from New York, where it was loaded direct from European ships, a miscellaneous cargo of 1,900 tons of package freight, including coffee, sugar, peanuts, sweet potatoes, fish, paint pigments, imported flax straw consigned to the Klear-flax Linen Looms Inc., and other commodities.

The boat is a model of modern construction and equipment. It is built of steel and is electrically equipped throughout. It was designed by Henry Penton of Cleveland, who was manager of the Great Lakes district of the United States Shipping board during the world war, and was built by the Great Lakes Engine works at Detroit, at their Ashtabula, Ohio, shipyard.

FINLAND AFTER U. S. DRINKING RECORD

(By United Press)
Chicago, Oct. 16.—"Finland is the only other country in the world where there is as much drunkenness as there is in the United States," said Dr. Frederick W. Weis, Copenhagen, speaking here.

Less drunkenness prevails in countries under state monopoly than in countries where prohibition is the law, he said.

"There are no fishing smacks that engage in fishing in this country now—they all 'run booze,' as you call it. If secret drinking keeps on in this country, all respect for law and order will be lost.

"There is more whiskey smuggling into Norway, where heavy alcoholic drinks are barred, than any other of her sister nations. In Denmark we have the cafe system, where you drink with your meals rather than drink 'healths.' Personally, I believe in the Danish plan of running up liquor prices with heavy taxation."

Dr. Weis is in this country studying economic conditions.

HOT APPLE PIE IS BROUGHT TO THE DISPATCH FORCE

It was "Apple Pie Day" at the Dispatch office this morning. It happened this way: Mrs. Margaret Lyles is giving a demonstration of the newest cooking methods at the Brainerd Gas & Electric Co. offices this week.

One of the first works of art turned out by the distinguished chef today was an apple pie, the kind mother makes when everything goes O. K. in the cooking line, the kind that lingers in your memory. Lew Taylor of the St. Cloud Public Service company, grabbed the pie and dashed down to the Dispatch office where it was speedily consumed by a hungry crowd.

Apple pie is just one of the long list of things Mrs. Lyles turns out with deft abandon.

CAME TO AMERICA TO SEE AND LEARN SENTIMENT OF ALL

SETS BEFORE COMMON PEOPLE NEED FOR AMERICAN AID TO SETTLE PROBLEMS

GREATLY IMPRESSED WITH VIRILITY OF MEN OF MINNEAPOLIS AND ST. PAUL

(By United Press)
With Lloyd George, St. Charles, Ill., Oct. 16. Lloyd George is out to carry his case for American aid in settling world problems directly to the people.

He is not disturbed by the fact that the administration at Washington, speaking through the cautious White House spokesman, has stated that it is not certain that anything will come of Lloyd George's plan for preserving world peace with his American-British understanding.

Lloyd George does not expect the American government to do anything now about this idea of his. He does not expect anything to come of it ever unless the American people impel the government to action. He cannot speak to governments; he has no official status, but he always has been an expert at talking to the common people.

He believes that if the American common people understand that until they throw the weight of their influence into the scales of peace there will be no peace in Europe, they will demand that Washington take whatever steps can be taken in consonance with American tradition to do that.

Having sounded his message yesterday before a big, enthusiastic audience of Northwesterners, Lloyd George intends to keep on sounding it in every section of the country where he speaks.

"I came here to see and hear, to learn of you," he said. "I did not intend to make speeches, but I have to make them, and I must tell you what is in my heart."

In his speech yesterday Lloyd George called on America "to help Europe make peace." Until the United States does, he said, "I despair of the future."

He added that America, he hoped, "would come in in due time and in its own way."

The British statesman was greatly impressed by the virility of the men he met in Minneapolis and St. Paul yesterday. Particularly was he interested in Senators Henrik Shipstead and Magnus Johnson. He did not want to be quoted on his opinion of them, but he told members of his party that "they assuredly have something that speaks in the voice of the great common people."

Lloyd George was to inspect the home established here by the Loyal Order of Moose as the guest of Secretary of Labor Davis, and was scheduled to reach Chicago at noon.

Lloyd George and his party arrived here bright and early and transferred from the Great Western railroad train to automobiles for the 10-mile drive to Mooseheart.

The party leaves Mooseheart for Chicago at 10:30.

LLOYD GEORGE GETS BIG OVATION AT CHICAGO

Chicago, Oct. 16.—A tremendous ovation was accorded Lloyd George by thousands of persons when the former premier of Great Britain and his party arrived here at 11:55 a. m. today.

Brig.-Gen. Charles G. Dawes, former director of the Federal budget, Mayor Dever, and leading business men of Chicago received the former premier at the Northwestern station when the special train pulled in from Mooseheart, Ill. Six Federal agents and a cordon of police were on hand to prevent possible hostile demonstrations by Irish sympathizers.

again fiery leaders in front balked before pressure. The police threatened to fire. As they prepared, the crowd scattered. Gradually the crowd left from the side streets of the vicinity.

General Strike May Follow

Mob leaders swore a general strike would be called tomorrow as a result of bloodshed.

Government leaders, fearing a general outbreak, ordered the closing of all big Federal buildings along the Wilhelmstrasse.

Guards quickly closed doors and barred windows.

NEW BOAT OPENS EPOCH ON LAKES; DOCKS FROM N. Y.

McDOUGALL FREIGHTER MAKES TRIP FROM SEABOARD TO DULUTH IN 10 DAYS

MUCH INTEREST AROUSED IN MAIDEN TRIP OF THE BOAT IN THE EAST

Duluth, Oct. 16.—Opening a new epoch in freight transportation between the Atlantic seaboard and the head of the lakes, the electric-driven freight ship, Twin Ports, of the Minnesota-Atlantic Transit company, owned by the McDougall Terminal Warehouse company and under the command of Capt. Fred McDougall of Detroit, docked at the McDougall warehouse in Duluth at 3 a. m. Monday, after making the trip direct from New York in 10 days with no transfer of cargo.

Much interest has been aroused by the maiden trip of the boat, both in New York and throughout the northwest. The boat was delayed two days in leaving New York, because of the interest shown by eastern shippers, who gave the boat additional cargo after it was ready to sail, according to H. T. Hoopes, manager of the company.

In addition to hundreds of Duluthians who thronged the boat all day Monday, a party of Twin Cities' shippers and businessmen, headed by John Losie, general freight agent in Minneapolis of the Minnesota-Atlantic Transit company, made a trip to Duluth in three special cars to inspect the freighter.

2,600-Ton Capacity

The Twin Ports is 253 feet long and 42 feet wide, and has a capacity of 2,600 tons. On the maiden trip it brought to Duluth from New York, where it was loaded direct from European ships, a miscellaneous cargo of 1,000 tons of package freight, including coffee, sugar, peanuts, sweet potatoes, fish, paint pigments, imported flax straw consigned to the Klear-flax Linen Looms Inc., and other commodities.

The boat is a model of modern construction and equipment. It is built of steel and is electrically equipped throughout. It was designed by Henry Penton of Cleveland, who was manager of the Great Lakes district of the United States Shipping board during the world war, and was built by the Great Lakes Engine works at Detroit, at their Ashtabula, Ohio, shipyard.

FINLAND AFTER U. S. DRINKING RECORD

(By United Press)

Chicago, Oct. 16.—"Finland is the only other country in the world where there is as much drunkenness as there is in the United States," said Dr. Frederick W. Weis, Copenhagen, speaking here.

Less drunkenness prevails in countries under state monopoly than in countries where prohibition is the law, he said.

"There are no fishing smacks that engage in fishing in this country now—they all 'run booze,' as you call it. If secret drinking keeps on in this country, all respect for law and order will be lost.

"There is more whiskey smuggling into Norway, where heavy alcoholic drinks are barred, than any other of her sister nations. In Denmark we have the cafe system, where you drink with your meals rather than drink 'healths.' Personally, I believe in the Danish plan of running up liquor prices with heavy taxation."

Dr. Weis is in this country studying economic conditions.

HOT APPLE PIE IS BROUGHT TO THE DISPATCH FORCE

It was "Apple Pie Day" at the Dispatch office this morning. It happened this way: Mrs. Margaret Lyles is giving a demonstration of the newest cooking methods at the Brainerd Gas & Electric Co. offices this week.

One of the first works of art turned out by the distinguished chef today was an apple pie, the kind mother makes when everything goes O. K. in the cooking line, the kind that lingers in your memory. Lew Taylor of the St. Cloud Public Service company, grabbed the pie and dashed down to the Dispatch office where it was speedily consumed by a hungry crowd.

Apple pie is just one of the long list of things Mrs. Lyles turns out with deft abandon.

WRIGHT KILLED BY HIS HOLSTEIN BULL

CALF THAT HE RAISED IS WORLD'S CHAMPION BUTTER PRODUCER

(By United Press)

Fergus Falls, Minn., Oct. 16.—William Wright, leading breeder of Holstein cattle here, was killed by a bull on his farm south of here last night. He was found dead in his barn late in the evening. A calf that Wright raised is now the world's champion butter producer.

'Lakes to Gulf' Hearing Begun; Precedes Tour

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Hearings before the United States senatorial committee investigating the "Lakes to Gulf" deep waterway, started here today. United States Senators David A. Reed, Pennsylvania; Smith W. Brookhart, Iowa; Kenneth McKellar, Tennessee; Edwin S. Broussard, Louisiana, and Medill McCormick, Illinois, have arrived for a three day session. After the hearings here the committee will board the "Robert R." to visit points along the route to New Orleans.

CAME TO AMERICA TO SEE AND LEARN SENTIMENT OF ALL

SETS BEFORE COMMON PEOPLE NEED FOR AMERICAN AID TO SETTLE PROBLEMS

GREATLY IMPRESSED WITH VIRILITY OF MEN OF MINNEAPOLIS AND ST. PAUL

(By United Press)

With Lloyd George, St. Charles, Ill., Oct. 16. Lloyd George is out to carry his case for American aid in settling world problems directly to the people.

He is not disturbed by the fact that the administration at Washington, speaking through the cautious White House spokesman, has stated that it is not certain that anything will come of Lloyd George's plan for preserving world peace with his American-British understanding.

Lloyd George does not expect the American government to do anything now about this idea of his. He does not expect anything to come of it ever unless the American people impel the government to action. He cannot speak to governments; he has no official status, but he always has been an expert at talking to the common people.

He believes that if the American common people understand that until they throw the weight of their influence into the scales of peace there will be no peace in Europe, they will demand that Washington take whatever steps can be taken in consonance with American tradition to do that.

Having sounded his message yesterday before a big, enthusiastic audience of Northwesterners, Lloyd George intends to keep on sounding it in every section of the country where he speaks.

"I came here to see and hear, to learn of you," he said. "I did not intend to make speeches, but I have to make them, and I must tell you what is in my heart."

In his speech yesterday Lloyd George called on America "to help Europe make peace." Until the United States does, he said, "I despair of the future."

He added that America, he hoped, "would come in in due time and in its own way."

The British statesman was greatly impressed by the virility of the men he met in Minneapolis and St. Paul yesterday. Particularly was he interested in Senators Henrik Shipstead and Magnus Johnson. He did not want to be quoted on his opinion of them, but he told members of his party that "they assuredly have something that speaks in the voice of the great common people."

Lloyd George was to inspect the home established here by the Loyal Order of Moose as the guest of Secretary of Labor Davis, and was scheduled to reach Chicago at noon.

Lloyd George and his party arrived here bright and early and transferred from the Great Western railroad train to automobiles for the 10-mile drive to Mooseheart.

The party leaves Mooseheart for Chicago at 10:30.

LLOYD GEORGE GETS BIG OVATION AT CHICAGO

Chicago, Oct. 16.—A tremendous ovation was accorded Lloyd George by thousands of persons when the former premier of Great Britain and his party arrived here at 11:55 a. m. today.

Brig.-Gen. Charles G. Dawes, former director of the Federal budget, Mayor Dever, and leading business men of Chicago received the former premier at the Northwestern station when the special train pulled in from Mooseheart, Ill. Six Federal agents and a cordon of police were on hand to prevent possible hostile demonstrations by Irish sympathizers.

Chinese in Canada.

Calculations put the number of Chinese in Canada today at 58,000, against 14,000 twenty years ago. These figures have been responsible for the Stewart bill, aiming at the abrogation of the $500 Chinese head tax and the admission into Canada of students and merchants under restricted conditions. In Vancouver alone (according to the London Times) there are 40 Chinese butchers, 65 barbers, 172 grocers, 30 jewelers, 201 tobacconists, 29 wholesale dealers, 159 hawkers and peddlers, 50 boot and shoe dealers, 5 publishers, 54 stationers, and they control 144 confectionery shops, 63 clothing stores, 30 express and dry businesses and 59 restaurants.

Why Not?

"Now, boys," said the schoolmaster to the geography class, "I want you to bear in mind that the affix 'stan' means 'the place of.' Thus we have Afghanistan, the place of Afghans—also Hindustan, the place of Hindus. Can any one give another example?"

Nobody appeared very anxious to do so until little Johnny Snags, the joy of his mother and the terror of cats, said proudly, "Yes, sir, I can. Umbrellastan, the place for Umbrellas."

Now You Can Shave in the Dark.

Designed especially for use by traveling men, a self-illuminating safety razor makes it possible to shave in the dark. In the handle of the razor is a tiny electric bulb, encased in a rubber holder which prevents dampness from rusting it. The lamp is adjusted so that it always throws its light on the spot where the razor is cutting. A clean shave in pitch darkness is said to be possible with this device.

Alcohol Street Lamps.

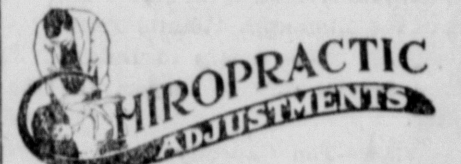

Buenos Aires, rapidly becoming up to date, still has grain alcohol lamps to light her streets, although kerosene and alcohol street lamps are being gradually superseded by electricity. More than a thousand alcohol lamps were installed during 1922. There are at present 3,273 alcohol street lamps in use in the city.

Women's Inventions.

Women in the past ten years have invented some 1,400 different "new and useful articles," according to a report by the United States patent office, ranging from a rotary plowshare to an egg beater. Among inventions enumerated are a cow tail holder, a reinforced bowl in which to beat eggs, and an artificial eyelash.

Man's Duty.

The constant duty of every man to his fellows is to ascertain his own powers and special gifts, and to strengthen them for the help of others.—John Ruskin.

In the "Good Old Days."

It was in the early days of sleeping cars, when they measured the sheets by square inches and weighed the blankets on letter-scales.

It was also a suffering passenger who, tossing and jolting through the dark and chilly night, wondered whether, by error, he was sleeping between towels and would possibly find the sheets hanging over the towel-horse next morning.

"Porter," he cried, as the train gave a particularly vicious jolt, and dragged his last sheet of bed-clothing aside, "bring me a corkscrew!"

The porter came hurrying. "Sorry sir," he said respectfully, "but we don't allow drinking in the berths."

"I don't want to drink!" retorted the suffering passenger. "I merely want to extract a pillow that has worked its way into my ear."

After Thinking Twice.

Father was standing before the fire lecturing his son and heir on the necessity for thinking twice before speaking once.

"Father!" exclaimed the boy suddenly.

The parent held up a warning finger. "Think again before you speak and then I will answer you."

The boy pondered for a minute or so and then said: "Father, I have thought twice and now I am quite convinced that your coat tails are on fire."—Boston Herald.

Tame Deer in British Columbia.

An interesting story comes from British Columbia by the roundabout way of the Yorkshire (England) Post, as follows: A settler took up his abode on a small rocky island. After he had been there a few days, a solitary deer paid him a visit. He put down some cornstalks for it, and later, it brought a second. Food was provided regularly, and by the end of the year thirty were in the habit of coming, swimming, as he learned, from the mainland. The animals soon lost all fear, and clustered round the dwelling as cattle might, some of the more daring knocking at the door to announce their presence.

Chinese in Canada.

Calculations put the number of Chinese in Canada today at 58,000, against 14,000 twenty years ago. These figures have been responsible for the Stewart bill, aiming at the abrogation of the $500 Chinese head tax and the admission into Canada of students and merchants under restricted conditions. In Vancouver alone (according to the London Times) there are 40 Chinese butchers, 65 barbers, 172 grocers, 30 jewelers, 201 tobacconists, 29 wholesale dealers, 150 hawkers and peddlers, 50 boot and shoe dealers, 5 publishers, 54 stationers, and they control 144 confectionery shops, 63 clothing stores, 30 express and dray businesses and 89 restaurants.

Why Not?

"Now, boys," said the schoolmaster to the geography class, "I want you to bear in mind that the affix 'stan' means 'the place of.' Thus we have Afghanistan, the place of Afghans—also Hindustan, the place of Hindus. Can any one give another example?"

Nobody appeared very anxious to do so until little Johnny Snags, the joy of his mother and the terror of cats, said proudly, "Yes, sir, I can. Umbrellastan, the place for Umbrellas."

Now You Can Shave in the Dark.

Designed especially for use by traveling men, a self-illuminating safety razor makes it possible to shave in the dark. In the handle of the razor is a tiny electric bulb, encased in a rubber holder which prevents dampness from rusting it. The lamp is adjusted so that it always throws its light on the spot where the razor is cutting. A clean shave in pitch darkness is said to be possible with this device.

Alcohol Street Lamps.

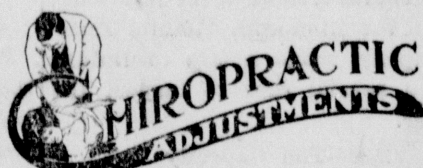

Buenos Aires, rapidly becoming up to date, still has grain alcohol lamps to light her streets, although kerosene and alcohol street lamps are being gradually superseded by electricity. More than a thousand alcohol lamps were installed during 1922. There are at present 3,273 alcohol street lamps in use in the city.

Women's Inventions.

Women in the past ten years have invented some 1,400 different "new and useful articles," according to a report by the United States patent office, ranging from a rotary plowshare to an egg beater. Among inventions enumerated are a cow tail holder, a reinforced bowl in which to beat eggs, and an artificial eyelash.

Man's Duty.

The constant duty of every man to his fellows is to ascertain his own powers and special gifts, and to strengthen them for the help of others.—John Ruskin.

In the "Good Old Days."

It was in the early days of sleeping cars, when they measured the sheets by square inches and weighed the blankets on letter-scales.

It was also a suffering passenger who, tossing and jolting through the dark and chilly night, wondered whether, by error, he was sleeping between towels and would possibly find the sheets hanging over the towel-horse next morning.

"Porter," he cried, as the train gave a particularly vicious jolt, and dragged his last sheet of bed-clothing aside, "bring me a corkscrow!"

The porter came hurrying. "Sorry sir," he said respectfully, "but we don't allow drinking in the berths."

"I don't want to drink!" retorted the suffering passenger. "I merely want to extract a pillow that has worked its way into my ear."

After Thinking Twice.

Father was standing before the fire lecturing his son and heir on the necessity for thinking twice before speaking once.

"Father!" exclaimed the boy suddenly.

The parent held up a warning finger. "Think again before you speak and then I will answer you."

The boy pondered for a minute or so and then said: "Father, I have thought twice and now I am quite convinced that your coat tails are on fire."—Boston Herald.

Tame Deer in British Columbia.

An interesting story comes from British Columbia by the roundabout way of the Yorkshire (England) Post, as follows: A settler took up his abode on a small rocky island. After he had been there a few days, a solitary deer paid him a visit. He put down some cornstalks for it, and, later, it brought a second. Food was provided regularly, and by the end of the year thirty were in the habit of coming, swimming, as he learned, from the mainland. The animals soon lost all fear, and clustered round the dwelling as cattle might, some of the more daring knocking at the door to announce their presence.

NOT ALL QUACKS

Drug Prepared by Chinese Doctors Vindicated.

Bufin Obtained From Toads for Heart Remedy Was Used for Centuries in the East.

That native Chinese doctors despite their supposed quack medicines and methods dating centuries back are sometimes in advance of scientific research and modern medical knowledge is pointed out by Dr. C. H. Barlow in an article relating some of his experiences in China.

"One day," Doctor Barlow states, "while rowing along in my boat on a canal in Soochow, I noted with a good deal of interest a man who held a tall basket. He was at a distance but I could make out that he was emptying some living things from the basket which were swimming away in every direction from the shore. My curiosity being aroused, I asked my boatman what the man was doing, eliciting the following information: 'The man is a Buddhist priest who is laying up merit by collecting toads from different localities and then liberating them in a safe place.'

"Being interested in herpetology and desiring to see the variety of toad he was letting go, I directed the boatman to row over to where I could see the creatures more distinctly. When we arrived I found the surface of the water alive with specimens of the big Asiatic toad, some of which I captured and put in my boat.

"On arriving in Shaohing and telling my teacher of the experience, he informed me that the man was not a priest but that he was a doctor and that he had been keeping the toads to get medicine from them. Many a time have we all seen on the tables of the street doctors the skins of toads dried and used for medicine. The teacher also informed me that the medicine obtained from the toad is a very efficient heart remedy, and described the method of securing it. The toad is held firmly in one hand, while the biggest wart-like swelling just behind the eye is touched lightly with a hot iron, whereupon a whitish juice is exuded by the toad. This is scraped off and put on to a glass plate and another toad is taken, and the operation repeated till there is a good supply of the white juice. This is then allowed to evaporate slowly to a powder, which is used to make up into pills and solutions as a heart remedy. On asking my teacher whether it is a really beneficial remedy or not, I was assured that it is a very valuable remedy indeed. This information, I am afraid, I took with a grain of salt.

"Now the story changes a bit in its external features, but not in its essentials. Soon after the above experience I noted in my Journal of The American Medical Association the following account:

"Two experimenters at the Rockefeller Research Institute in New York City in experimenting with Bufo asiaticus found that by stimulating the parotid gland of that toad by means of electricity they obtained a white secretion, the active principle of which they have named Bufin, after the toad. On experimenting with bufin on animals it was found to be almost identical in its physiological action to digitalis. It has been added to our pharmacology as a useful drug."

"Thus does the laboratory vindicate empirical medicine of the century-old Chinese system."

Candy Tree of India.
It is said that in India there flourishes a species of tree that produces a kind of "candy," if that term may be applied in this relation. This tree is known as the bassia, and of the three important species two show sugary flowers and the third is called the "Indian butter tree." Now the petals of the flowers are rich in sugar, and drop from the tree in the early morning. They are picked up by the women and the children, and are spread out on mats to dry in the sun. A single tree will, it is said, provide 200 pounds of flowers annually. When fresh, these flowers are very sweet and taste much like figs. They are eaten fresh or cooked with rice, shredded coconut or flour. The seeds of the butter tree are full of oil, and this oil is used to make a kind of butter, and also for soap and for candles.

Seal of the United States.
The seal adopted June 20, 1782, by a committee appointed to secure a suitable device for a great seal of the United States, consists of a spread eagle, having on its breast a shield with thirteen stripes and a chief azure, and in its beak a scroll bearing the motto E Pluribus Unum. In one talon is a bundle of arrows, and in the other an olive branch. Above the head is a "glory" emerging from the clouds and surrounding thirteen stars. On the reverse side is an unfinished pyramid—symbolic of the strength and growth of the Union; above it is an eye, surrounded by a triangle. Around the rim are the mottoes Annuit Cœptis (He [God] has favored the undertaking) and Novus Ordo Seclorum (A new order of things). The great seal has never been altered, and is in the custody of the secretary of state.

"You expect to make a farmer of your boy, Josh?"
"No," answered Mr. Cornstossel. "But he's got to stick around the farm long enough to get a reputation so that he'll be able to stand some chance as a politician."

SAW HORATIO ALGER'S GHOST

Intervenes in Time to Save Two Young Bootblacks by Tripping Policeman.

Emil Jones was always going in for things. His acquaintances knew him, and because they knew him they kept away from him. His latest is spiritualism, and he has been a bore for the last few weeks; so when he quietly stated after returning from lunch that he had just seen the ghost of Horatio Alger no one gave him the slightest heed.

That didn't stop Emil any. He just smiled sheepishly, took a long breath and began: "Yeh; when Alger's ghost walked up the street to the corner the other day at noon and stopped for a moment in front of a cafeteria and watched four little bootblacks busy at their trade, he received the most earthly shock of his entire spiritual existence."

"Yes?" said Smith, the bookkeeper, who didn't particularly care for Emil's tales, but took a keen delight in the discomfiture of the rest of the staff, "just what caused this particular shock?"

"Well," beamed Emil, who was now sure of at least one listener, "the four bootblacks were working so quickly that Horatio stopped and remarked at the terrible speed of the youngsters."

"I turned to Horatio's ghost and whispered: 'See the first boy on the end? He seems to be winning.'"

"Yes," replied Horatio Alger, who had overcome his timidity and came closer to me, so I could now see him quite plainly, "but 2, 3 and 4 are not far behind. See—all of them almost simultaneously have now commenced on the second shoe."

"But I replied, 'I still think the nearest lad will finish first. If you wish to make a little wager I—'

"Just then there was a hurried scurrying and a sharp 'Cheese it, de cops!' and four boys sprang as one from their tasks, leaving boxes, brushes, polishing rags and polish scattered over the sidewalk."

"One of the lads in another instant would have been arrested, but just as the policeman stretched out his hand to grasp the little fellow he tripped and sprawled upon the sidewalk."

"The policeman picked himself up, brushed off his clothes, glared at the quickly gathering crowd for a moment and then continued on up the street at a slow walk."

"He probably did not know and possibly never will know what I know and saw with my own eyes. Just as he was about to lay his hand on the youngster, Horatio Alger's ghost ran quickly out from the shadows of the building and deliberately gave the villainous policeman 'the foot.'"—New York Sun and Globe.

Monkeys Rang the Tocsin.

A correspondent in Naples tells an amusing tale of two escaped monkeys, which, after frightening a whole district for several days, mobilized the countryside by ringing the tocsin in the village church. The two delinquents were acquired by two rich Neapolitans, who wished to have a Voronoff operation performed. Pending the moment when the celebrated professor could proceed to Italy, the monkeys were kept in a cage. One day they managed to break the doors of the cage and escape. Reaching the Royal park of Capodimonte, the simian visitors considerably startled the people there, until finally they were chased into the village church. Spying two ropes, the monkeys made a dash to climb up to what must have seemed a safe point of vantage. Soon the bells at the other end of the ropes began to toll a tocsin, which grew ever wilder as the beasts, driven half frantic by the unknown sound of clanging, swung widely back and forth until crowds attracted by the ringing bells captured them both.

Angler-Fishes.

The family of the angler-fishes contains more strange forms than any other. Living on the sea-bottom and seeking their prey by stealth, angler-fishes do not need powerful swimming-muscles; consequently the size of the body and tail has become considerably reduced, so that the head, relatively to the size of the body, is usually large (and villainously ugly). The rays of the back-fin are very long, and the foremost is provided with a flaglike flap of skin at the top, extremely sensitive to touch, and playing a very important part in the capture of its food. The fish commonly lies concealed on the sea-bottom, with this "flag" erected. From its general resemblance to the surrounding seaweed it is quite inconspicuous, so that passing fishlings seek not to avoid it. If one touches it the jaws beneath open instantly, and the luckless trespasser is engulfed. It is probable that this flag serves also as a lure to attract passing fishes.

The Change.

"Yes, Mabel has given up the idea of a career."

"You don't tell me! And she was so determined, had made all arrangements to work her way through music in Munich and art in Paris. My goodness! So devoted to a career!"

"Yes, dear, yes, she was; but there was an awful wealthy bereavement in the family of that young man who wanted to marry her, so she decided to console him!"—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Got Off Lightly.

"Hello, Jones, what's up?"
"Gunshot wound, old man."
"Great Scott! How did it happen? Out shooting?"
"No, home—learning the cornet."—London Weekly Telegraph.

Startling New Views of Results of Jap Earthquake

Above, a general view of the fire swept city of Tokio following the last of the quake shocks. This photo clearly defines the havoc and devastation which followed the mammoth conflagration. Note the complete razing in the foreground. Below, following the disaster of the quake and when conditions were in the course of returning to normalcy through the colossal efforts of emergency relief squads to relieve the acuteness of the starving populace question, this photo shows a section of the city of Tokio members of the Japanese military handing out rations to the outstretched appealing hands of the starving natives.

Good Forgetters.

He was telling the old story about the man who thought he had left his watch at home and took it out to see if he had time to go back for it. "That isn't so bad as a man I heard of," said the other man. "He left his office and put out a card to say that he would be back at 3 o'clock. Noticing that he had forgotten something, he went back to his office, read the notice on the door and sat down on the stairs to wait till 3 o'clock."—Los Angeles Times.

"The Rudder Boom."

One of the most interesting devices used by the lumbermen along the upper reaches of the Ottawa river during the spring run of logs, is what is called a "rudder boom." The "rudder boom" is a hinged and movable bridge of logs that is usually built above a rapids. When the boom is let go the current of the river carries it clear across to the other side, forming a partial dam. When the logs come rushing down the stream in the spring the "rudder boom" is thrown out to prevent the logs from rushing down the falls.

OUCH! MY BACK! RUB LUMBAGO PAIN AWAY

St. Jacob's Oil stops any pain, so when your back is sore and lame, or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest St. Jacob's Oil at any drug store, pour a little in your hand, and rub it right on your aching back; and by the time you count fifty the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the pain right out and ends the misery. It is magical yet absolutely harmless, and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica, backache or rheumatism so promptly. It never disappoints!

"Just then there was a hurried scurrying and a sharp 'Cheese it, de cops!' and four boys sprang as one from their tasks, leaving boxes, brushes, polishing rags and polish scattered over the sidewalk."

"One of the lads in another instant would have been arrested, but just as the policeman stretched out his hand to grasp the little fellow he tripped and sprawled upon the sidewalk."

"The policeman picked himself up, brushed off his clothes, glared at the quickly gathering crowd for a moment and then continued on up the street at a slow walk."

"He probably did not know and possibly never will know what I know and saw with my own eyes. Just as he was about to lay his hand on the youngster, Horatio Alger's ghost ran quickly out from the shadows of the building and deliberately gave the villainous policeman 'the foot.'"—New York Sun and Globe.

Monkeys Rang the Tocsin.

A correspondent in Naples tells an amusing tale of two escaped monkeys, which, after frightening a whole district for several days, mobilized the countryside by ringing the tocsin in the village church. The two delinquents were acquired by two rich Neapolitans, who wished to have a Voronoff operation performed. Pending the moment when the celebrated professor could proceed to Italy, the monkeys were kept in a cage. One day they managed to break the doors of the cage and escape. Reaching the Royal park of Capodimonte, the simian visitors considerably startled the people there, until finally they were chased into the village church. Spying two ropes, the monkeys made a dash to climb up to what must have seemed a safe point of vantage. Soon the bells at the other end of the ropes began to toll a tocsin, which grew ever wilder as the beasts, driven half frantic by the unknown sound of clanging, swung widely back and forth until crowds attracted by the ringing bells captured them both.

Angler-Fishes.

The family of the angler-fishes contains more strange forms than any other. Living on the sea-bottom and seeking their prey by stealth, angler-fishes do not need powerful swimming-muscles; consequently the size of the body and tail has become considerably reduced, so that the head, relatively to the size of the body, is usually large (and villainously ugly). The rays of the back-fin are very long, and the foremost is provided with a flaglike flap of skin at the top, extremely sensitive to touch, and playing a very important part in the capture of its food. The fish commonly lies concealed on the sea-bottom, with this "flag" erected. From its general resemblance to the surrounding seaweed it is quite inconspicuous, so that passing fishlings seek not to avoid it. If one touches it the jaws beneath, open instantly, and the luckless trespasser is engulfed. It is probable that this flag serves also as a lure to attract passing fishes.

The Change.

"Yes, Mabel has given up the idea of a career."

"You don't tell me! And she was so determined, had made all arrangements to work her way through music in Munich and art in Paris. My goodness! So devoted to a career!"

"Yes, dear, yes, she was; but there was an awful wealthy bereavement in the family of that young man who wanted to marry her, so she decided to console him!"—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Got Off Lightly.

"Hello, Jones, what's up?"

"Gunshot wound, old man."

"Great Scott! How did it happen?"

"Out shooting?"

"No, home—learning the cornet."—London Weekly Telegraph.

Startling New Views of Results of Jap Earthquake

Above, a general view of the fire swept city of Tokio following the last of the quake shocks. This photo clearly defines the havoc and devastation which followed the mammoth conflagration. Note the complete razing in the foreground. Below, following the disaster of the quake and when conditions were in the course of retaining normalcy through the colossal efforts of emergency relief squads to relieve the acuteness of the starving populace question, this photo shows a section of the city of Tokio members of the Japanese military handing out rations to the outstretched appealing hands of the starving natives.

Good Forgetters.

He was telling the old story about the man who thought he had left his watch at home and took it out to see if he had time to go back for it. "That isn't so bad as a man I heard of," said 'the other man. "He left his office and put out a card to say that he would be back at 3 o'clock. Noticing that he had forgotten something, he went back to his office, read the notice on the door and sat down on the stairs to wait till 3 o'clock."—Los Angeles Times.

"The Rudder Boom."

One of the most interesting devices used by the lumbermen along the upper reaches of the Ottawa river during the spring run of logs, is what is called a "rudder boom." The "rudder boom" is a hinged and movable bridge of logs that is usually built above a rapids. When the boom is let go the current of the river carries it clear across to the other side, forming a partial dam. When the logs come rushing down the stream in the spring the "rudder boom" is thrown out to prevent the logs from rushing down the falls.

Even Gypsies Changing.

To defend her race from the charge that they are "ugly, dirty, half idiotic," Fenella Smith, a gypsy princess, has written the first genuine Romany letter to appear in the English newspapers. She is a gifted woman, deeply versed in Borrow gypsy lore, and claiming descent from the Petulengo family, mentioned in Borrow's books, which to gypsies is what Norman blood is to the aristocratic English families. "Princess" Smith contends that real gypsies are handsome, clean, as clever as their critics, and gives evidence that the mysterious vagabond race is changing its traditional habits under the influence of the modern thirst for knowledge. Nowadays in gypsy camps here, her letter continues, it is not unusual to find the mother squatting beside her caravan teaching the swarthy brood of children to read and write.

Fashion Harshly Criticized.

Fashion is the abortive issue of vain ostentation and exclusive egotism: it is haughty, trifling, affected, servile, despotic, mean and ambitious, precise and fantastical, all in a breath—tied to no rule and bound to conform to every whim of the moment.—Hassitt.

REVERENCE FOR LAW

THE newspapers carry an interesting letter from a convict in the Nebraska state penitentiary in which he says that instruction in the laws of the land would reduce the number of criminals. This convict remarks that it may seem strange that one imprisoned as a criminal should advise others on a matter that concerns reverence for law. But when one has thought about his message it does not seem so strange, for who better than a criminal should know the causes of criminality? This man has broken the laws of the land and he can look back to those earlier missteps which prepared the way to the penitentiary.

This convict's letter is of interest at a time when governors from the several states and others interested in the sanctity of law are considering the matter of law enforcement. Enforcement is not so much a matter of compulsion. Willingness to abide by the laws of the land must underlie good citizenship and of such stuff good citizenship is made. A healthy respect for law will lead to keeping within the limits established by law and unless that respect is built into the very fiber of our manhood and womanhood mere attempts to enforce laws, which are not respected, will not secure the end to which they are directed.

In this letter the convict writing says: "No man would be worthy of greater honor or more enduring fame than he who is instrumental in introducing into the schools of America a simple course of instruction upon the law of the land, its purpose, the blessings attending obedience and the blighting effects of disobedience thereto."

While education may not bring into life a reverence for law it will bring to the youth that understanding of the purpose of law, and dangers attending disrespect for law, which may be the foundation of reverence for law. Knowledge is important and though it may not be everything it is certain that without knowledge of law there is very little prospect of developing a real respect for law.

It is right that attempts should be made to enforce laws and those who refuse to obey the laws of the land should be indicted, but the more important matter is that of educating the people in the principles that underlie government founded on law. The long vision is necessary in dealing with this subject and respect for law in the future may be partially guaranteed by education and by the inculcation of a more spiritual motive in the life of the rising generation.

PROPOSED BY THE WOMEN OF THE STATE

At the recent meeting of the Minnesota Federation of Women's clubs a program was submitted towards which the women will work during the year. This program stresses the effort to organize sentiment favorable to the World court. This subject has had the attention of the women of Minnesota, who have not been willing to form their conclusions without seeking the best advice of persons able to speak with authority on the subject. Not only American experts but outstanding leaders from the other side of the Atlantic have been called in to present their information on this important question. This information has convinced the women that entering the World court will not involve the United States in the political affairs of Europe and will not compel this country to fight any battles that may have to be fought over there before a settlement of the present vexed questions is found. Rather the women have been forced to the conclusion that in the World court lies the only hope of building up a system of international law which will give promise of the end of war. Contrary to the common opinion of men, some of our modern psychologists are affirming that women are more practical than men, and their attempt to influence the public will in the direction of the World court may be an evidence of their practical attempt to solve world problems.

Turning to matters that concern the relations of life nearer home the women's clubs favor the enforcement of carnival laws, an adequate school building code, support of the child welfare work, efforts to do away with displays of extravagance at style shows, which is likely to have a bad effect upon girls, who, seeing costly displays, become discontented with their clothing, and work directed to the end of securing proper fire protection laws in schools.

These proposals will be well received by all those who are interested in the welfare of the people of their own communities and of the state of Minnesota. The women are working toward good ends and many who opposed them in their efforts to gain the franchise, including such men as Lord Birkenhead, are now ready to affirm that their activities have been directed toward ends that are practical and helpful in the forward march of common life.

CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES

THERE are a number of matters of great concern to Canada and the United States that are up for discussion at this time. One of the most important of these has to do with a Canadian embargo on pulpwood. Up to this time the government has not placed this embargo on the exportation of this material, demanded by the mills in the United States where excessive cutting has resulted in the dwindling of the resources. If the embargo goes into effect it is likely that many manufacturers will cross the border to manufacture paper where the supply of pulpwood is abundant.

The embargo would work a double hardship: It would rob American mills of the raw material they need and it would hinder the development of agriculture in Canada, for the curtailed demand for pulpwood from Canada would result in taking away the financial inducement given to those who remove the pulpwood from their lands and develop them into crop-growing lands.

Paper manufacturers in the United States are telling their customers that they made a great mistake when they asked that newspaper should be put on the free list when the last tariff was drawn up. This may be true, but irrespective of the truth or error contained in it, attention must be directed to securing an understanding with the Canadian government on such a subject. It is impossible for the United States to claim all of the advantages of dealings with Canada. If this country chooses to shut out Canadian products which are not needed by erecting high tariff walls it is to be expected that Canada will retaliate and continued retaliation may generate ill feeling between the two countries.

This is a time, when because of the reactions of the World war, Canada must make Herculean efforts to reorganize for the future in the industrial and economic struggle. The United States also must think of the future and it is important to the western world that they think together.

LLOYD GEORGE CAPTURES CANADA

WHILE Lloyd George has suffered defeat in Britain his power to appeal to people has not suffered eclipse. During the past two years he has not been able to influence public sentiment in Britain as he moved it during the war, but in Canada he has taken a hold upon the public consciousness and has been welcomed with an enthusiasm that has probably never been equalled.

Lloyd George has never been placed beyond the range of possibility as a candidate for leadership in Britain. After the war his coalition government survived many storms but it finally fell because the multiplicity of problems caused a confusion of thinking in Britain and the people were disappointed because the policies of the government did not remove the unfortunate conditions of unemployment in Britain and uncertainty in Europe.

With the passing of the coalition government it was hoped by the British that a one party government would show more solidarity and present a more definite policy, with the probability that this would result in improvement in Europe and therefore in Britain. But this is exactly what did not happen.

At present the newspapers are asserting that a Lloyd George government is likely to be called upon to face the problems that have not been solved by the Bonar Law and Stanley Baldwin ministries. Lord Curzon, the secretary for foreign affairs, a thoroughly trained diplomat, has not succeeded in getting along very well with the foreign departments of European governments and it is possible that Lord Grey may be needed once more in that important office.

While the newspapers are discussing the possibility of his return to power the war premier is telling the Canadians how his hair was turned from black to gray by the strain of those years of leadership, and that the problems of the United States and of Britain and her colonies are not to be met by similar methods. He proves once more that he is able to sense the differences that exist in different countries, which must turn to them with a proper understanding of those differences and avoid attempts to settle different problems in a similar way.

This great leader's ability to touch the right chord and win a response from the multitude has been demonstrated once more. He knows what the people are thinking and he knows how to interpret the public will. The empire, he says, must not be one in which the nations are put into one mould but one that secures unity out of diversity. This is an expression that Canadians appreciate at this time. Canada is seeking to have it understood that in the future her attitude to the mother-land will be yet more independent and this able statesman interprets this desire in the terms of its relation to the empire as a whole.

IF BRITAIN GROWS COTTON

THE conference of the prime ministers of the vast territories that compose the British Empire, in which, together with other questions, economic matters are receiving attention, is likely to be one of importance to the future of Britain and the colonies.

The conference met at a time when unemployment is still Britain's colossal problem although it is five years since the World war ended. As the conference convenes there is little or no hope of improvement in the situation unless the conference itself works out plans that may result in finding employment for the multitudes who cannot find work in Britain.

It has been proposed that Britain assist the colonies in preparing their lands to produce products needed in Britain, and one of these is cotton. If Africa grows cotton what will happen to our southern states? When a country supplies all the cotton demanded by the Lancashire mills and that country is not the United States the cotton growers of the south will be forced to turn to some other line of activity.

There is a reason for this suggestion. It sounds like retaliation but it is dictated by the facts of the situation and must be considered if the safety of the British people and the development of the empire are to be secured. The reason lies in the lack of markets for British manufactured goods. Europe is not buying in quantity because of the instability of the European states and America is sending large quantities of goods and more particularly raw materials to Britain but has raised a high tariff wall against goods from the other side. The result of this is seen in the restriction of our imports from Britain and when Britain's goods are not called for on the American market unemployed men in Britain remain unemployed.

It is the belief of the representatives of Britain and the governments that are associated with Britain in this commonwealth of nations that, with conditions as they are, the only hope lies in growing what Britain needs in British colonies with British labor, thereby supplying work for many who cannot find it in Britain. From the standpoint of Britain and the colonies this is highly desirable but it is not so pleasing to those who are at present supplying raw materials for British manufacturers. Its effect upon the southern states would be most unfortunate.

Textile manufacturers cannot employ more men if there is a small demand for their goods and yet Britain must find work for the unemployed. This suggests growing within the empire the materials used in Britain's factories, and the whole matter is of concern to those growing such products in all parts of the world. This is one more indication of the futility of building up artificial barriers in the form of tariffs. They may spell a much larger loss in the future than the gain they represent in the present. A little cooperation between the nations would go a long way towards solving their economic problems but nationalism is carried into economics as into other matters to the disadvantage of the peoples of the countries of the world.

ONE needs to know quite a lot about Oklahoma before one is qualified to pronounce judgment upon its governor. His methods may be unwise but his opponents have always given him his opportunity. Governor Walton has never made an issue; he has always won on issues which somebody else raised.

A RECENT picture shows that President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State is well guarded by soldiers with fixed bayonets. Not at once do angry feelings yield to the suasion of men who are looking to their countrymen's good.

THE American Egyptologist is not afraid of the dangers that are supposed to assail those who interfere with the tombs of the Pharaohs. He expects to find treasures in the inner tomb of Tutankhamen.

Expression.

Of course an Artist's whole problem must be, as Carlyle wrote to me, the expressing with articulate clearness, the thought in him—I am almost inclined to say that clear expression should be his only work and care, for he is born, ordained, such as he is—and not born learned in putting what was born in him into words—whatever can be clearly spoken out to be. But "bricks and mortar" is very easily said, and some of the thoughts in "Ferdinand" not so readily. I sit forty times a day by light words and untrue to the thought.—Robert Browning.

The reason lies in the lack of markets for British manufactured goods. Europe is not buying in quantity because of the instability of the European states and America is sending large quantities of goods and more particularly raw materials to Britain but has raised a high tariff wall against goods from the other side. The result of this is seen in the restriction of our imports from Britain and when Britain's goods are not called for on the American market unemployed men in Britain remain unemployed.

It is the belief of the representatives of Britain and the governments that are associated with Britain in this commonwealth of nations that, with conditions as they are, the only hope lies in growing what Britain needs in British colonies with British labor, thereby supplying work for many who cannot find it in Britain. From the standpoint of Britain and the colonies this is highly desirable but it is not so pleasing to those who are at present supplying raw materials for British manufacturers. Its effect upon the southern states would be most unfortunate.

Textile manufacturers cannot employ more men if there is a small demand for their goods and yet Britain must find work for the unemployed. This suggests growing within the empire the materials used in Britain's factories, and the whole matter is of concern to those growing such products in all parts of the world. This is one more indication of the futility of building up artificial barriers in the form of tariffs. They may spell a much larger loss in the future than the gain they represent in the present. A little cooperation between the nations would go a long way towards solving their economic problems but nationalism is carried into economics as into other matters to the disadvantage of the peoples of the countries of the world.

ONE needs to know quite a lot about Oklahoma before one is qualified to pronounce judgment upon its governor. His methods may be unwise but his opponents have always given him his opportunity. Governor Walton has never made an issue; he has always won on issues which somebody else raised.

Expression.

Of course an Artist's whole problem must be, as Carlyle wrote to me, the expressing with articulate clearness, the thought in him—I am almost inclined to say that clear expression should be his only work and care, for he is born, ordained, such as he is—and not born learned in putting what was born in him into words—whatever can be clearly spoken out to be. But "bricks and mortar" is very easily said, and some of the thoughts in "Stordello" not so readily. I sin forty times in a day by light words and untrue to the thought.—Robert Browning.

"KATHLEEN" TO BE GIVEN BY THE ELKS

Home Talent Romantic Musical
Comedy Directed by the John
B. Rogers Producing Co.

TEEMS WITH HUMOR, ROMANCE

You'll Whistle "Kathleen." "Don't Forget," "Deduction" and
"Lawn Tennis"

"Kathleen" will be presented by Brainerd Lodge of Elks No. 615 under direction of the John B. Rogers Producing Company on Monday and Tuesday, November 19 and 20, at the New Park theatre.

The house, social and community welfare committee, Clyde E. Parker chairman and his committee men, have secured this great attraction which will give full play to some of the best local talent in the city and lodge jurisdiction.

It is an unusual love story of quaint New England, resplendent with pretty costumes, catchy music, songs that linger in your memory and that are of the kind that you can whistle.

The show was given recently at Galesburg, Illinois, under Elks auspices and Secretary H. L. Scott of the lodge in a letter to the producing company, said: "Have just completed a two-night performance of 'Kathleen' under the direction of Mr. Mc-Cloy and are glad to tell you that the play was a success from every standpoint.

"Kathleen" takes well with the general public, having plenty of humor, romance, and song, to suit the most exacting person. Your director was a man of wonderful ability and we were more than pleased with his services."

The Rogers people, it will be remembered, staged the Brainerd Elks' successful production of "Kathleen" given some years ago.

The Hamilton, Ohio, Daily News, commenting on the production, said in part: "There are only two kinds of people in town—those who saw 'Kathleen' last night and those who are going tonight."

The Daily Journal of the same town said "Kathleen scored a huge success and was the town's sweetheart."

Notre Dame, Army Sign Contract for 3 Games

New York, Oct. 16.—As a result of the friendly relations between the United States military academy at West Point and Notre Dame university, a three year contract calling for as many football games will be drawn within the next month. The game next year will be played about a week later than last Saturday's struggle, but no mention is made of where the first struggle will be played. In fact, none was made of the other two games.

THE AUTHORITY IN FIRE ARMS, AMMUNITION AND CUTLERY

USED BOARDS TO GUIDE CAR

Hero of Desert Automobile Race Won Third Money Owing to His Resourcefulness.

I used to hear a lot about the old Los Angeles-to-Phoenix desert races, which were run in two or three relays, the drivers checking in at all-night stops at the end of each day. These races were run at a season of the year when rain on all or part of the course was not unusual. It took brains, a powerful car and a heavy foot to negotiate that muddy course.

Bill O'Day was my hero in the Phoenix struggle. He wasn't licked unless his motor fell out of the chassis or something else just as bad happened.

In one of these races Bill was running pretty well up in front on the third day. He was sitting pretty, in spite of having wallowed through mud for two days. But bad luck got him. He broke his steering arm—I mean on the car. That would have been the curtain for most drivers.

But old Bill and his mechanic took two fence rails and wired one to the axle on the inside of each front wheel. Then they got into the car, each one holding to the rail on his side of the car. They guided that car into the fair grounds at Phoenix by pressing the rails against the front tires when they wanted to turn.

That is, when they wanted to go to the right the man on the right side of the car would pull in on his fence rail and the end of it would then press on that part of the right front tire ahead of the front axle. At the same time the man on the left would so manipulate his fence rail as to press on the left front wheel behind the front axle and thus both front wheels would be turned in the right direction.

The tires were cut to pieces on the sides, but the car finished in third place—and that was the important thing.—Saturday Evening Post.

With Happiness.

We heard a stranger philosophizing about the feverishness of a visit. "One evening it was a ride, the next a trip to the movies, the next dancing, and so on. Always restlessness. We're getting so we can't sit still." Do we deserve Stevenson's advice and indictment?

"We are in such haste to be doing, to be writing, to be gathering gear, to make our voice audible a moment in the derisive silence of eternity, that we forget that one thing, of which these are but the parts—namely, to live. . . . We run to and fro like frightened sheep. And now you are to ask yourself if, when all is done, you would not have been better to sit by the fire at home and be happy thinking. To sit still and contemplate—to remember the faces of women without desire, to be pleased by the great deeds of men without envy, to be everything and everywhere in sympathy, and yet content to remain where and what you are—is not this to know both wisdom and virtue, and to dwell with happiness?"—Collier's.

Probation Precedes Vows.

In most of the Nyasaland tribes, in Africa, permanent cannibal life is preceded by a term of probation, which can be broken off at will by either party. When the woman has finally made up her mind to stay, she punctuates her decision by kneeling when she addresses her husband. As a rule, she will inaugurate this change in their relations by a little coup de theater. She will choose an occasion when chance has brought together a goodly number of people, and she sees her husband standing among them. She will then walk right up to him, kneel down before him, put some trivial question, or give some unimportant piece of information, wait for the reply in a kneeling posture, and, after this has been given, get up and join the others. By thus humiliating herself, she has taken possession of her husband.

In some tribes, as, for instance, that of the Wangoni, where probation is not required, the girls will postpone kneeling until after marriage.—Atlantic Monthly.

Giving Meyerbeer a Treat.

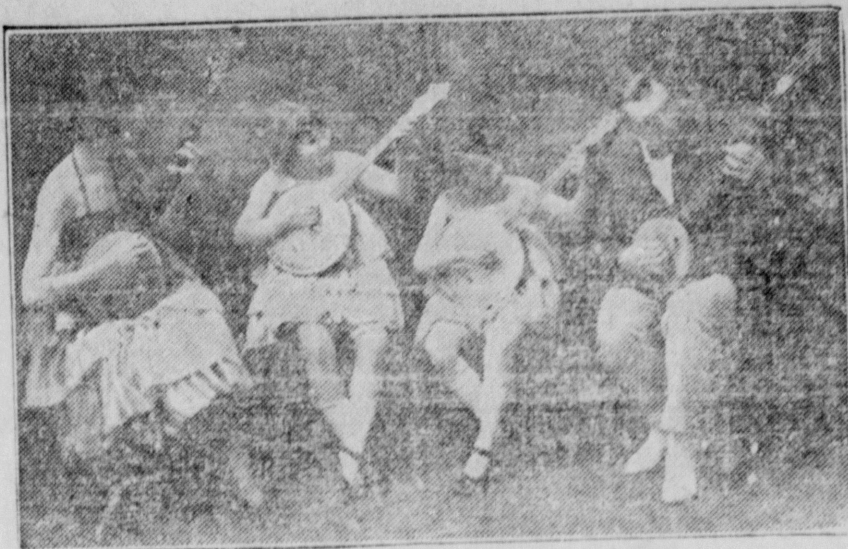

Musicians are proverbially jealous of one another; but not all of them can manage to get a smile out of that unfortunate fact, as the gentle and merry-hearted composer Rossini once did. Rossini, who lived most of his life in Paris, was walking one day on the boulevard with his friend Braga. They met the composer Meyerbeer, who stopped and inquired politely after Rossini's health. "It's bad, very bad, my dear Meyerbeer," answered Rossini, "I have a splitting headache, a strange pain in my side and a leg that troubles me constantly." After Meyerbeer had consoled sufficiently he passed on, and Braga asked Rossini how he happened to have become suddenly so unwell. "Oh, I'm well enough," said Rossini with a laugh, "but I wanted to give Meyerbeer a moment's pleasure. He would be so delighted to see me go to pieces!"—Youth's Companion.

One of the most remarkably beautiful scenes ever screened was filmed at Cosmopolitan Productions as a part of its super-special, "Enemies of Women," from the famous story by Ibanez, author of "The Four Horsemen." It is the interior of the Russian Palace of Prince Lubimoff, the chief character in the story impersonated by Lionel Barrymore, during a wild revel just prior to the revolution in Petrograd. This gorgeous set shown from many angles, may be seen when "Enemies of Women," is screened next Saturday and Sunday at the New Park Theatre.

14,000-MILE TRIP FOR 2c STAMP

Letters Carried From Alaska to Madrid, Spain, for Trifling Sum

Fourteen-thousand mile trip for two cents! From the farthest corner of frigid Alaska to Madrid in sunny Spain for two coppers!

Such is the tour offered letters by the United States Government in building up one of the most efficient postal gathering and distributing systems in the world. And it's this efficient system that works day in and day out through hot and cold, snow and rain, that forms the background for "Loyal Lives," a photoplay romance of the United States Mail, which will be seen at the New Park last time tonight.

Scenes in the picture are typical of those witnessed any day at the local post office. And the photoplay goes further to touch into the very romance of a postman's life, which enchants the imagination.

A daring robbery of the United States Railway Mail coach bearing mail possibly from icy Alaska to Madrid, and a post office robbery form two of the most thrilling scenes in the picture and furnish spectators with a thorough concept of the dangers surrounding the conveying of mail through the country.

THE FAMOUS MUSICAL OSBORNES

This versatile and talented little family traveling troupe of four people, has recently completed its engagement at the Palace Theatre, Minneapolis, and will be here to entertain you at the Lyceum on Wednesday and Thursday. They present a very clean, high class musical performance which is pleasing to all, young or old. The feature picture will be Marion Davies and T. Roy Barnes in "Adam and Eve," an 8-reel Paramount picture.

Mary Carr and Brandon Tynan in one of the amusing scenes that help tide the spectator over the high ly dramatic and pathetic moments in "Loyal Lives" at the New Park last time tonight.

"Adam and Eve" Coming

A good word for the ultra-modern girl is to be found in Marion Davies' most recent Cosmopolitan production, "Adam and Eve," which opens at the Lyceum Theatre Wednesday for two days. Robert G. Vignola who made "When Knighthood Was in Flower," directed.

"Enemies of Women" Greater Than "Four Horsemen" at New Park on Saturday and Sunday

One of the most remarkably beautiful scenes ever screened was filmed by Cosmopolitan Productions as a part of its super-special, "Enemies of Women," from the famous story by Ibanez, author of "The Four Horsemen." It is the interior of the Russian Palace of Prince Lubimoff, the chief character in the story impersonated by Lionel Barrymore, during a wild revel just prior to the revolution in Petrograd. This gorgeous set shown from many angles, may be seen when "Enemies of Women," is screened next Saturday and Sunday at the New Park Theatre.

GLORIA SWANSON AS AN INCA PRINCESS

In the action of "My American Wife," the picture starring Gloria Swanson, which will have its last showing at the Lyceum Theatre tonight, Miss Swanson dreams that she is an Inca princess and that an officer of Pizarro's army, portrayed by Antonio Moreno, woos and wins her. The interlude is colorful, dramatic and thrilling, and Miss Swanson is seen in a beautiful costume made especially for this scene at a heavy cost. This, however, is only one of

14,000-MILE TRIP FOR 2c STAMP

Letters Carried From Alaska to Madrid, Spain, for Trifling Sum

Fourteen-thousand mile trip for two cents!

From the farthest corner of frigid Alaska to Madrid in sunny Spain for two coppers!

Such is the tour offered letters by the United States Government in building up one of the most efficient postal gathering and distributing systems in the world. And it's this efficient system that works day in and day out through hot and cold, snow and rain, that forms the background for "Loyal Lives," a photoplay romance of the United States Mail, which will be seen at the New Park last time tonight.

Scenes in the picture are typical of those witnessed any day at the local post office. And the photoplay goes further to touch into the very romance of a postman's life, which enchants the imagination.

A daring robbery of the United States Railway Mail coach bearing mail possibly from icy Alaska to Madrid, and a post office robbery form two of the most thrilling scenes in the picture and furnish spectators with a thorough concept of the dangers surrounding the conveying of mail through the country.

1 MILL TAX FOR THE CITY LIBRARY

Council Takes Cognizance of the Request Made by the Library Board

BICYCLE TRAFFIC LAW PASSED

Smoke Ordinance, Passed Some Time Ago, up to City Engineer to Handle Enforcement

The one mill tax levy, requested by the library board, passed at the regular meeting of the city council on Monday night, thus assuring a proper amount of funds with which to conduct the public library.

A committee from the library board, represented by Mrs. J. Rasch, presented a request for the one-mill levy for library expenses. Supt. W. C. Cobb, representing the Brainerd independent school district, made a similar request, as did Henry I. Cohen, representing the Civic & Commerce Association, Mrs. Henry I. Cohen, for the Brainerd Musical club and Mrs. Linnemann for the Lincoln-Washington parent teachers association. Resolutions were received from the Harrison and the Lowell parent-teachers associations, also.

On motion, the finance committee will be instructed to place on the assessment roll the one-mill tax levy for the library.

Sidewalk Request

William Turcotte, requested that a sidewalk be placed on South Sixth street on a small piece of city property, and on motion the city engineer was instructed to build this and also a small piece at the corner of Fifth and Laurel streets.

New Street Lights

Three petitions were presented for street lights, all of which were accepted and referred to the proper committee, and the city clerk was instructed to see that this committee reports at the next meeting.

O. H. Gram made application for a pool table license, and this was granted subject to the approval of the mayor.

Liberty Bonds for Depository Bond
The First National Bank presented its assignment of fifteen thousand dollars worth of Liberty Bonds in lieu of a depository bond, and these were accepted and ordered executed by the proper officers.

On motion, drainage tile will be put in on Rosewood and Fourteenth street, provided the report of the street committee at the next meeting is favorable.

Repairing City Hall Plumbing

The matter of repairs to plumbing in the city hall building was left in the hands of the property committee. The poor committee reported that O. H. Gram has sent Wenzel Markel, a public charge, to a local hospital on account of a stroke of paralysis which he recently suffered. Alderman Cain requested temporary assistance for Mrs. Lemire, and the poor committee was requested to give her not to exceed $10 worth of groceries.

Bicycle Traffic Ordinance

Ordinance No. 313, pertaining to the control of bicycle traffic, was given its second reading. On motion the rules were suspended and the ordinance was passed, all present voting aye.

The property owners on South Ninth street formally rejected the proposition to improve their street with mail, as was proposed at a former meeting of the city council. The matter of lighting Gregory park was referred to President Michael and the park board.

Smoke Ordinance

The matter of the smoke ordinance, passed some time ago, was taken up, and discussed, and on motion the city engineer was instructed to handle the enforcement of this ordinance.

A. W. Osborne submitted a bid for the complete construction of the extension of the Oak street storm sewer, the rate to be $1.40 per lineal foot. His bid was rejected.

League of Minnesota Municipalities

A communication was read from M. B. Lamb, executive secretary of the League of Minnesota Municipalities, advising that the city clerk of Brainerd is appointed a member of the committee on gross earnings of the league. Others on this committee are C. E. Campton, superintendent of schools of Two Harbors, chairman, R. A. McQuat, mayor of Grand Rapids, and J. H. Shunk, president of the city council, Proctor. This is in the nature of a distinct honor for Brainerd, as the committee on gross earnings is one of the most important by the league, and was instrumental last year in presenting the gross earnings bill before the state legislature.

Current bills were allowed subject to the approval of the finance committee. All members of the council were present except C. H. and R. H. Paine.

204 CHILDREN WERE EXAMINED

Recent Clinics Held in Crow Wing County Under County Public Health Association

ATTENDANCE WAS SPLENDID

One Case Revealed So Important That Doctor Said It Was Worth His Trip to the Country

(By Thora Ingebritson, County Nurse)

At the recent clinics held in Crow Wing county under the auspices of the County Public Health Association there was a splendid attendance. 204 children have been examined. The mothers seemed much pleased with the attention the children received. A good proportion of the children were found to be sound and in good health; on the other hand some serious defects were found of which the parents were not aware and which if corrected now will help the children to grow up strong and well. One such case was so important that the doctor said it was worth his trip to the country. This child as well as all others needing treatment was referred to the family physician. It was gratifying also to see so many mothers interested in the subject of keeping the well children well. Prevention is the big factor in public health work. Booklets are published by the Minnesota Public Health Association and are entitled "The Needs of the Child." They contain information as to the proper feeding of children under 14 years, also rules as to rest, personal hygiene and general training. There are some of these booklets still on hand and parents may obtain them either from Miss Michael or Miss Ingebritson.

Dr. M. D. Ott who conducted the clinics showed a great deal of interest in each child and gave them individual attention. Dr. Ott is now leaving Minnesota to continue his practice in another State.

The value of a sound healthy body as well as of a trained mind is being more and more appreciated, also that a child cannot do his best in his studies if he is not physically fit. The clinics are very helpful to parents and we hope that the next Christmas Seal Sale which comes soon will go way over the top so that we may have many more clinics in other parts of the county where they are desired.

DINNER AT M. E. CHURCH

Given in Honor of Newly Returned Pastor, Rev. E. A. Cooke, and Wife

A get-together dinner will be given at the Methodist church on Wednesday evening, complimentary to Rev. and Mrs. E. A. Cooke. The dinner will be served by the ladies of the aid society and is scheduled for 6 o'clock. All adult members and friends of the church are invited. Due to the doctors' request, parents are asked to leave all children at home.

BRAINERD BUSINESS MEN'S DINNER OCT. 17

Association Plans on Large Attendance at Civic & Commerce Rooms Wednesday Evening

AL BEAVER TO PREPARE MEAL

O. A. Peterson Will be Master of Ceremonies, Program of Interesting Discussions

Attention is again called to the dinner and meeting of the Brainerd Business Men's Association, which will be held on Wednesday evening at the Civic and Commerce Association rooms.

Dinner is to be served at 6:15 sharp. Tickets are 50c each. The meal will be prepared by Al Beaver of the Iron Exchange Cafe. O. A. Peterson will be master of ceremonies.

The important question of how to curb and control promiscuous advertising will be the principal topic for discussion, also the observance of certain holidays, closing of stores on certain evenings, etc., will occupy the meeting which follows the dinner.

These matters promise to make a very interesting meeting, and every member of the association is urged to attend. Announcement of the event was made early so that none would make other engagements.

GREAT ARRAY OF PICTURES

Manager Irwin Buys Pick of the Pictures For the New Park

Manager George Irwin, of the New Park theatre, while in Minneapolis recently, arranged for the greatest array of pictures for the coming season that this theatre has ever offered.

The New Park has bought the pick of the pictures from all of the leading producers, says Mr. Irwin, and they will be shown in Brainerd at about the same time that they appear in the leading twin city theatres. He has arranged to get the leading feature picture from each of the following well-known producers: Paramount, Metro, First National, Goldwyn, Warner Brothers, Universal and Preferred.

According to Mr. Irwin the biggest feature pictures have been shown in Brainerd from six months to a year later than they are shown in the leading theatres of the Northwest. To buy these big pictures while they are still new has required the expenditure of a great deal of money, more than the average theatre can afford. It is hoped that Brainerd theatre-goers will appreciate the policy of the New Park and its efforts to live up to the standard of metropolitan theatres as far as programs are concerned.

A few of the really big productions which will be offered in the near future to patrons of this theatre follow:

"Are You a Failure," with an all-star cast. A Buster Keaton comedy is included in this program.

"Enemies of Women," with Lionel Barrymore and Alma Reubens. This is said to be one of the greatest productions of the year, and claimed by all who have seen it to be even greater than the "Four Horsemen." It will be shown in Brainerd on the same day that it opens at the Garrick theatre, Minneapolis, the home of the greatest photo plays. Brainerd will see it on next Saturday and Sunday.

"Crimoline and Romance" starring the ever popular Viola Dana. "Bluebeard's 8th Wife," with Gloria Swanson. One of the new Paramounts.

Johnny Hines, the high-powered comedian, is coming in "Luck." "Main Street," Sinclair Lewis' famous novel of a Minnesota town, and one that theatre-goers have all been waiting for, featuring Monte Blue and Florence Vidor. This picture has been breaking attendance records wherever it has been shown.

"The Last Hour," starring Milton Sills. Do you remember Sills in "The Spoilers?" "Where the North Begins," with Rin-tin-tin, the Belgian police dog, better than Strongheart in "Brawn of the North."

"Peg O' My Heart" with Laurette Taylor, the girl who created the role on the stage, taken from the play shown 1,500 times in the United States.

Harold Lloyd in "Why Worry" a greater laugh feast than any of Lloyd's former comedies. Now in its second week at the Strand, Minneapolis. Mae Murray in "Jazzmania." Mae Murray fans will be glad to hear that she has made an even better picture than the "Broadway Rose."

"The Common Law" with Corinne Griffith and Conway Tearle, one of the best productions of the year. "Children of the Dust" with Lloyd Hughes, Johnnie Walker and Pauline.

Booklets are published by the Minnesota Public Health Association and are entitled "The Needs of the Child." They contain information as to the proper feeding of children under 14 years, also rules as to rest, personal hygiene and general training. There are some of these booklets still on hand and parents may obtain them either from Miss Michael or Miss Ingebritson.

Dr. M. D. Ott who conducted the clinics showed a great deal of interest in each child and gave them individual attention. Dr. Ott is now leaving Minnesota to continue his practice in another State.

The value of a sound healthy body as well as of a trained mind is being more and more appreciated, also that a child cannot do his best in his studies if he is not physically fit. The clinics are very helpful to parents and we hope that the next Christmas Seal Sale which comes soon will go way over the top so that we may have many more clinics in other parts of the county where they are desired.

DINNER AT M. E. CHURCH

Given in Honor of Newly Returned Pastor, Rev. E. A. Cooke, and Wife

A get-together dinner will be given at the Methodist church on Wednesday evening, complimentary to Rev. and Mrs. E. A. Cooke. The dinner will be served by the ladies of the aid society and is scheduled for 6 o'clock. All adult members' and friends of the church are invited. Due to the doctors' request, parents are asked to leave all children at home.

BRAINERD BUSINESS MEN'S DINNER OCT. 17

Association Plans on Large Attendance at Civic & Commerce Rooms Wednesday Evening

AL BEAVER TO PREPARE MEAL

O. A. Peterson Will be Master of Ceremonies, Program of Interesting Discussions

Attention is again called to the dinner and meeting of the Brainerd Business Men's Association, which will be held on Wednesday evening at the Civic and Commerce Association rooms.

Dinner is to be served at 6:15 sharp. Tickets are 50c each. The meal will be prepared by Al Beaver of the Iron Exchange Cafe. O. A. Peterson will be master of ceremonies.

The important question of how to curb and control promiscuous advertising will be the principal topic for discussion, also the observance of certain holidays, closing of stores on certain evenings, etc., will occupy the meeting which follows the dinner.

These matters promise to make a very interesting meeting, and every member of the association is urged to attend. Announcement of the event was made early so that none would make other engagements.

GREAT ARRAY OF PICTURES

Manager George Irwin, of the New Park theatre, while in Minneapolis recently, arranged for the greatest array of pictures for the coming season that this theatre has ever offered. The New Park has bought the pick of the pictures from all of the leading producers, says Mr. Irwin, and they will be shown in Brainerd about the same time that they appear in the leading twin city theatres. He has arranged to get the leading feature picture from each of the following well-known producers: Paramount, Metro, First National, Goldwyn, Warner Brothers, Universal and Preferred.

According to Mr. Irwin the biggest feature pictures have been shown in Brainerd from six months to a year later than they are shown in the leading theatres of the Northwest. To buy these big pictures while they are still new has required the expenditure of a great deal of money, more than the average theatre can afford. It is hoped that Brainerd theatre-goers will appreciate the policy of the New Park and its efforts to live up to the standard of metropolitan theatres as far as programs are concerned.

A few of the really big productions which will be offered in the near future to patrons of this theatre follow:

"Are You a Failure," with an all-star cast. A Buster Keaton comedy is included in this program.

"Enemies of Women," with Lionel Barrymore and Alma Reubens. This is said to be one of the greatest productions of the year, and claimed by all who have seen it to be even greater than the "Four Horsemen." It will be shown in Brainerd on the same day that it opens at the Garrick theatre, Minneapolis, the home of the greatest photo plays. Brainerd will see it on next Saturday and Sunday.

"Crinoline and Romance" starring the ever popular Viola Dana. "Bluebeard's 8th Wife," with Gloria Swanson. One of the new Paramounts.

Johnny Hines, the high-powered comedian, is coming in "Luck." "Main Street," Sinclair Lewis' famous novel of a Minnesota town, and one that theatre-goers have all been waiting for, featuring Monte Blue and Florence Vidor. This picture has been breaking attendance records wherever it has been shown.

"The Last Hour," starring Milton Sills. Do you remember Sills in "The Spoilers?" "Where the North Begins," with Rin-tin-tin, the Belgian police dog, better than Strongheart in "Brawn of the North."

"Peg O' My Heart" with Laurette Taylor, the girl who created the role on the stage, taken from the play shown 1,500 times in the United States.

Harold Lloyd in "Why Worry" a greater laugh feast than any of Lloyd's former comedies. Now in its second week at the Strand, Minneapolis. Mae Murray in "Jazzmania."

Mae Murray fans will be glad to hear that she has made an even better picture than the "Broadway Rose."

"The Common Law" with Corinne Griffith and Conway Tearle, one of the best productions of the year. "Childhood of the Dust," with Lloyd Hughes, Johnnie Walker and Pauline.

CHANCE FOR THE LITTLE RING FELLOWS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Oct. 16.—Some of the little fellows who didn't get near the festive tables that were all set during the summer will have a chance to pick up some crumbs during the indoor boxing season.

Practically all of the big championship cards were used up during the biggest outdoor season of years and the promoters in arranging winter bouts will have to call upon the lighter classes and the less celebrated lights to provide the entertainment.

Jack Dempsey is through until next summer, around New York at least, and Benny Leonard considers himself too big a card for "logical contenders" under a roof. They are the best drawing cards in the game.

Jim Coffroth has been talking about using Dempsey in a fight during the winter season at Tijuana, but it is doubtful that he can find an opponent who would be a card good enough to draw the gate necessary to pay the champion.

Coffroth was talking some about matching Harry Wills and Dempsey, but from reliable information it was learned that he was using Wills only as a camouflage and that he never intended to use the colored fighter, as he considers him a very poor attraction in California, where Wills has made four very bad fights.

Wills should be able to get some work around New York if he gets down off his high horse and forgets that he is "the logical contender." As long as the colored challenger of the champion refuses to do anything asked of him, it will become more and more apparent that he does not care to take any chances and that he is desirous only of a big loser's end with the champion.

Battling Siki, being a curiosity, ought to be able to get some good purses next winter if the New York boxing commission is able to learn which of the six or seven who claim his contract is his real manager.

Tommy Gibbons ought to get anything he wants for fighting this winter, and there should be plenty of work for him. Promoters all over the country would like to use him, but he is booked up almost through the winter with vaudeville and movie contracts. Perhaps he is making a lot of money from these outside sources, but he is losing many opportunities for some fine purses.

Tex Rickard would like to put Gibbons on in three shows in Madison Square Garden. It has been suggested that Gibbons fight Floyd Johnson, and Gibbons is willing if a date suitable to both of them can be arranged. Other bouts for the St. Paul heavyweight have been suggested with Jack Renault, the Canadian heavyweight, who has been stepping along almost sensationally. Leo Flynn, however, would want a lot of money to get Renault knocked over. He wanted $30,000 to let Bill Brennan fight Gibbons more than a year ago.

Gibbons would like to have Mike McTigue or Gene Tunney, from whom it would be possible to get a light heavyweight title, but neither of them will have a thing to do with the only fighter who ever went the limit against the heavyweight champion.

MANY TEAMS NEED ROGERS HORNSBY

Despite the insistence of the owners and manager of the St. Louis Cardinals that Rogers Hornsby, the National League's best ball player, will play in St. Louis next season or not at all, there are reasons to believe that there are chances, at least, for some other club to obtain the services of the Cardinal star.

The outcome of the pennant race in the National League next season may be influenced in a very large degree by what means the St. Louis club decides upon in solving the problem caused by the rebellion of Hornsby.

For several years, Hornsby has acted like a satisfied player with the Cardinals, and as long as he seemed to have no objections, the statements made by the club owners when the Giants were said to have offered $200,000 for him, that he would never be sold or traded looked to be final.

Hornsby, from all indications, is not satisfied now. His act in taking a poke at Branch Rickey indicated that he was not in sympathy with the policies of his manager and his refusal to play in one of the late games of the season practically established that indication as a fact.

As long as he is dissatisfied and in a state of open disagreement with the management, Hornsby's playing must necessarily suffer and his value to the club will decrease not only by the effect it will have upon him as an individual, but because of the demoralization that it is bound to work with the whole club.

Perhaps the owners do mean it now when they say that they will not dispose of him, but they will not be wise in taking that stand. With Hornsby on the open market, the club should be able to get enough material in a trade to make the club at least stronger than it is now.

New York, Chicago and Pittsburgh probably will engage in spirited bidding for Hornsby, if he is placed upon the market.

Late in the season, John McGraw said that he did not want Hornsby and that he was not prepared to make any offers for him. It does not stand to reason that the Giant leader would refuse to make room for the best ball player in the league, when his presence in the lineup would increase the drawing power of the Giants as a gate attraction, even if he figures that he would not increase the playing strength of the team.

Because of the protest that would arise if the Giants outbid the other clubs and for the reason that baseball generally might be hurt by another stroke of "pennant buying," perhaps McGraw will not go after Hornsby, but that is the only logical reason that would cause McGraw to pass up the chance to acquire such a valuable player.

Another Record Set By Gertrude Ederle

Honolulu, Oct. 16.—Miss Gertrude Ederle, aquatic star of the New York Women's Swimming association shattered another record here when she stroked the 400 meter free style event in 5 minutes 54 2-5 seconds, in the A. A. U. water meet. Previously she had hung up new records for the 100 meter free style swim and the 200 meter open water event.

McGRAW PAYS A TRIBUTE TO BUSH

John McGraw paid this tribute to Bush:

"To sum up Sunday's game, it was simply a matter of Joe Bush and Joe Dugan. The laurel wreath belongs to them. Very few pitchers ever worked better in a world's series than Bush did Sunday and there will be many more such big events before you will see a man slam the ball as did Joe Dugan. There was not a question about any one of his blows. He hit the ball squarely on the nose—did it every time just when it would start the Yanks on another advance. He was the attacking leader and Joe Bush the defense. They could have won the game between them.

"As I sat on the bench and watched Bush turn back batter after batter for us, I couldn't help thinking of the first game he pitched and won in a world's series. It was just ten years ago and he won it against us. He was just 20 years old then and with all the confidence of youth the boy whipped that ball through on us like a bullet.

"Incidentally, that is when he got the nickname of 'Bullet Joe.' It is quite a tribute to the care an athlete takes of himself when he can pitch a winning game in a world's series in 1913 and then pitch a better one in 1923.

"In 10 years Bush has gradually changed from a happy-go-lucky care-free kid to a man of caution and uncanny skill. Everything he did Sunday was deliberate. He has pitched often against our club and had a fair working knowledge of how to pitch to each batter. There is no question that he had sized us up right. The only man to get a hit off him was Emil Meusel. He made all the three hits credited to the Giants.

"For us to win a game with pitching like that, with the Yanks slamming the ball at every turn, was impossible. It was one of the most decisive victories I have seen in a big series.

"As I said Sunday, I felt all afternoon as if we were back in the National league. We used four pitchers, making a total of nine in the last two games. It is unnecessary for me to say that our pitching was bad. Nobody, it seems, could get the ball going right. The much-talked-of superiority of Yank pitchers told in that game."

Junior World's Series Postponed Again, On Account Wet Grounds

(By United Press)
Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 16.—The Baltimore-Kansas City junior series game scheduled for today was postponed on account of wet grounds.

Vancouver Team Wins Northwest Polo Title

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 16.—In a game that had to be finished after dark because of a tie resulting at the close of the eighth chukker, the polo team of the Seventh Infantry of Vancouver barracks won the northwest championship, defeating the slashing combination from the Tenth Field Artillery of Camp Lewis, 8 to 7.

Rumors Have Burns as New Manager of Braves

New York, Oct. 16.—George Burns, outfielder of the Cincinnati Reds and former Giant star, will succeed Fred Mitchell as manager of the Boston Braves, according to information received.

PALE HOSE WIN FROM CUBS, 7-4

Chicago, Oct. 16.—A five-run attack in the fourth inning put the White Sox in front with a lead that never was threatened and the Americans won the fifth game of the Chicago series from the National leaguers, 7 to 4. Willie Kamm, $100,000 beauty purchased by the Sox last spring from San Francisco, hit two home runs, while Ed Collins hit one. Friberg and Vogel hit for circuit drives for the Cubs.

Charley Robertson pitched the route for the Sox and always had a good lead. Four pitchers toiled for the National league nine—Aldridge, Fussell, Osborne and Dumovich.

The series will be resumed today at the American league park. The Sox need one more victory to win. White Sox...000 502 000—7 7 1
Cubs...010 000 120—4 6 0

Batteries—Robertson and Crouse; Aldridge, Fussell, Osborne, Dumovich and O'Farrell.

World's Series Umps Get $2,000 Each; Want More

New York, Oct. 16.—The umpires who worked in the world's series called on Judge Landis today and asked for an increase in pay in view of the big attendance. They now get $2,000 each.

"Don't you think the umpires are as important as the players?" The judge deliberated a minute. "No, I don't," he replied.

WHAT DAMON RUNYON SAID OF JOE BUSH

Damon Runyon, sport writer, said in part of Joe Bush:

"Bullet Joe" is not as bullety as in other days, perhaps, but he held the Giants in the hollow of his greasy old glove Sunday, while the Yankees were smearing the divers deliveries of the different Giant pitchers.

"Bullet Joe" now uses something besides speed in his pitching. He mixes 'em up, as the ball players say. When a young pitcher first comes into the big league he relies a lot on his natural speed, on physical power. When he gets along in baseball years and finds his physical power is waning, he puts intelligence into his pitching—or he doesn't last.

In other years "Bullet Joe" used to throw the ball past the batter, again lapsing into baseball language. He was as speedy as they come. Now he is on the down slope of his baseball career, with the years ahead of him growing shorter.

Repeats 1913 Performance

Ten years ago "Bullet Joe," then in his first year in the big league, beat the Giants in a world series game—the first game of 1913 when he was with the Athletics, whipping the great Tesreau, the huge spitball pitcher of the Giants.

Tesreau has long since passed from the big league. Some of the 62,817 fans who watched the game Sunday, saw "Bullet Joe" in that game 10 years ago, using nothing but amazing speed. It made them feel young again as they watched "Bullet Joe" turning back the Giants' inning after inning. This was positively the largest crowd that ever saw a big league ball game. All other largest crowds are infringements. There were 387 more paid admissions than on Columbus day, the total being $201,459. The "million dollar gate," the old dream of baseball, is at hand.

Game for Record Book

Bush's three-hit game against the Giants goes into the record book. Bill James of the Braves, beat the Athletics with one hit in 1914. Ed Reulback of the Cubs, let the White Sox down with two hits in 1906. Mordecai Brown of the Cubs, also pitched a two or three hit game that series.

THE MERCHANTS WHO ADVERTISE HAVE THE FINEST STORES

BUSH LEAGUERS

By GUY LEE
Bush kept his hits well scattered; Each tenth man smote the ball; Three times was Bullet battered And Meusel did it all.

Bush kept his hits well scattered; To Gowdy he was hep. He rendered torn and tattered Young's pseudonym of Pep.

Bush kept his hits well scattered; The famous Fordham flash Snuffed out, his cap bespattered. His swat a sickly crash.

Bush kept his hits well scattered; The comic Casey's larks Were limited to splattered And courteous remarks.

Bush kept his hits well scattered; When Heinie sought the pelf His poison little mattered; He drank it all himself.

Bush kept his hits well scattered; As curves around him slid, Did Banny feel much flattered He did, like Kelly did.

Bush kept his hits well scattered; He watched the Giants fall, And made, their glory shattered, Bush leaguers of them all.

MILLER HUGGINS PRAISES CONTROL

Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, said of Bush:

"Bullet Joe" Bush checked the Giants for us in fine style. I never saw Joe work with such ease and with such splendid control. He worked a spell over that ball and it hopped where he wished. His fast ball was wonderful, and his fork ball was the more effective because of this. It was strange that he could get the ball away from "Irish" Meusel, but "Irish," like his brother Bob, is a good hitter and liable to crack any ball pitched. He hit to all fields against Bush.

Bush worked as cleverly with his head as he did with his arm. He knew he was good when the game started so he said himself. For six innings he sailed the balls in fast enough to hop and slow enough to carry the hitters off their balance. But, true in all, he saved the greater burst of speed for the last three innings. In six of the nine innings Joe sat the Giants down in order. He fanned Bancroft in the eighth inning with as pretty a fork ball as ever broke across the plate. They fooled O'Connell completely with a curve, a speeder and a fork ball that broke through across the plate when the Californian expected Joe to waste one. That is pitching, as every ball player knows.

As a class bacteria probably form a community with the greatest reputation for evil and probably they deserve it least. They are blamed for almost every form of disease and yet, as among ourselves, the useful members outnumber the criminal by many thousands to one. So closely in appearance do the good bacteria resemble the wicked ones that often it is impossible to distinguish one from the other. They are all very low forms of plant life and work by generating complex "enzymes" which bring about chemical changes. Scientists consider bacteria to be as necessary to human life as air and water! Nature has no greater scavengers, for they transform dead bodies and plants by the process popularly known as decay into suitable foods for living plants. They are coming more and more into prominence in industrial processes and the expert bacteriologist finds an increasing demand for his services.—London Mail.

CHANCE FOR THE LITTLE RING FELLOWS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Oct. 16.—Some of the little fellows who didn't get near the festive tables that were all set during the summer will have a chance to pick up some crumbs during the indoor boxing season.

Practically all of the big championship cards were used up during the biggest outdoor season of years and the promoters in arranging winter bouts will have to call upon the lighter classes and the less celebrated lights to provide the entertainment.

Jack Dempsey is through until next summer, around New York at least, and Benny Leonard considers himself too big a card for "logical contenders" under a roof. They are the best drawing cards in the game.

Jim Coffroth has been talking about using Dempsey in a fight during the winter season at Tijuana, but it is doubtful that he can find an opponent who would be a card good enough to draw the gate necessary to pay the champion.

Coffroth was talking some about matching Harry Wills and Dempsey, but from reliable information it was learned that he was using Wills only as a camouflage and that he never intended to use the colored fighter, as he considers him a very poor attraction in California, where Wills has made four very bad fights.

Wills should be able to get some work around New York if he gets down off his high horse and forgets that he is "the logical contender." As long as the colored challenger of the champion refuses to do anything asked of him, it will become more and more apparent that he does not care to take any chances and that he is desirous only of a big loser's end with the champion.

Battling Siki, being a curiosity, ought to be able to get some good purses next winter if the New York boxing commission is able to learn which of the six or seven who claim his contract is his real manager.

Tommy Gibbons ought to get anything he wants for fighting this winter, and there should be plenty of work for him. Promoters all over the country would like to use him, but he is booked up almost through the winter with vaudeville and movie contracts. Perhaps he is making a lot of money from these outside sources, but he is losing many opportunities for some fine purses.

Tex Rickard would like to put Gibbons on in three shows in Madison Square Garden. It has been suggested that Gibbons fight Floyd Johnson, and Gibbons is willing if a date suitable to both of them can be arranged. Other bouts for the St. Paul heavyweight have been suggested with Jack Renault, the Canadian heavyweight, who has been stepping along almost sensationally. Leo Flynn, however, would want a lot of money to get Renault knocked over. He wanted $30,000 to let Bill Brennan fight Gibbons more than a year ago.

Gibbons would like to have Mike McTigue or Gene Tunney, from whom it would be possible to get a light heavyweight title, but neither of them will have a thing to do with the only fighter who ever went the limit against the heavyweight champion.

MANY TEAMS NEED ROGERS HORNSBY

Despite the insistence of the owners and manager of the St. Louis Cardinals that Rogers Hornsby, the National League's best ball player, will play in St. Louis next season or not at all, there are reasons to believe that there are chances, at least, for some other club to obtain the services of the Cardinal star.

The outcome of the pennant race in the National League next season may be influenced in a very large degree by what means the St. Louis club decides upon in solving the problem caused by the rebellion of Hornsby.

For several years, Hornsby has acted like a satisfied player with the Cardinals, and as long as he seemed to have no objections, the statements made by the club owners when the Giants were said to have offered $200,000 for him, that he would never be sold or traded looked to be final.

Hornsby, from all indications, is not satisfied now. His act in taking a poke at Branch Rickey indicated that he was not in sympathy with the policies of his manager and his refusal to play in one of the late games of the season practically established that indication as a fact.

As long as he is dissatisfied and in a state of open disagreement with the management, Hornsby's playing must necessarily suffer and his value to the club will decrease not only by the effect it will have upon him as an individual, but because of the demoralization that it is bound to work with the whole club.

Perhaps the owners do mean it now when they say that they will not dispose of him, but they will not be wise in taking that stand. With Hornsby on the open market, the club should be able to get enough material in a trade to make the club at least stronger than it is now.

New York, Chicago and Pittsburgh probably will engage in spirited bidding for Hornsby, if he is placed upon the market.

Late in the season, John McGraw said that he did not want Hornsby and that he was not prepared to make any offers for him. It does not stand to reason that the Giant leader would refuse to make room for the best ball player in the league, when his presence in the lineup would increase the drawing power of the Giants as a gate attraction, even if he figures that he would not increase the playing strength of the team.

Because of the protest that would arise if the Giants outbid the other clubs and for the reason that baseball generally might be hurt by another stroke of "pennant buying," perhaps McGraw will not go after Hornsby, but that is the only logical reason that would cause McGraw to pass up the chance to acquire such a valuable player.

Another Record Set

By Gertrude Ederle

Honolulu, Oct. 16.—Miss Gertrude Ederle, aquatic star of the New York Women's Swimming association shattered another record here when she stroked the 400 meter free style event in 5 minutes 54.2-5 seconds, in the A. A. U. water meet. Previously she had hung up new records for the 100 meter free style swim and the 200 meter open water event.

McGRAW PAYS A TRIBUTE TO BUSH

John McGraw paid this tribute to Bush:

"To sum up Sunday's game, it was simply a matter of Joe Bush and Joe Dugan. The laurel wreath belongs to them. Very few pitchers ever worked better in a world's series than Bush did Sunday and there will be many more such big events before you will see a man slam the ball as did Joe Dugan. There was not a question about any one of his blows. He hit the ball squarely on the nose—did it every time just when it would start the Yanks on another advance. He was the attacking leader and Joe Bush the defense. They could have won the game between them.

"As I sat on the bench and watched Bush turn back batter after batter for us, I couldn't help thinking of the first game he pitched and won in a world's series. It was just ten years ago and he won it against us. He was just 29 years old then and with all the confidence of youth the boy whipped that ball through on us like a bullet.

"Incidentally, that is when he got the nickname of 'Bullet Joe.' It is quite a tribute to the care an athlete takes of himself when he can pitch a winning game in a world's series in 1913 and then pitch a better one in 1923.

"In 10 years Bush has gradually changed from a happy-go-lucky carefree kid to a man of caution and uncanny skill. Everything he did Sunday was deliberate. He has pitched often against our club and had a fair working knowledge of how to pitch to each batter. There is no question that he had sized us up right. The only man to get a hit off him was Emil Meusel. He made all the three hits credited to the Giants.

"For us to win a game with pitching like that, with the Yanks slamming the ball at every turn, was impossible. It was one of the most decisive victories I have seen in a big series.

"As I said Sunday, I felt all afternoon as if we were back in the National League. We used four pitchers, making a total of nine in the last two games. It is unnecessary for me to say that our pitching was bad. Nobody, it seems, could get the ball going right. The much-talked-of superiority of Yank pitchers told in that game."

Junior World's Series Postponed Again, On Account Wet Grounds

(By United Press)
Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 16.—The Baltimore-Kansas City junior series game scheduled for today was postponed on account of wet grounds.

Vancouver Team Wins Northwest Polo Title

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 16.—In a game that had to be finished after dark because of a tie resulting at the close of the eighth chukker, the polo team of the Seventh Infantry of Vancouver barracks won the northwest championship, defeating the slashing combination from the Tenth Field Artillery of Camp Lewis, 8 to 7.

Rumors Have Burns as New Manager of Braves

New York, Oct. 16.—George Burns, outfielder of the Cincinnati Reds and former Giant star, will succeed Fred Mitchell as manager of the Boston Braves, according to information received.

PALE HOSE WIN FROM CUBS, 7-4

Chicago, Oct. 16.—A five-run attack in the fourth inning put the White Sox in front with a lead that never was threatened and the Americans won the fifth game of the Chicago series from the National League, 7 to 4. Willie Kamm, $100,000 beauty purchased by the Sox last spring from San Francisco, hit two home runs, while Ed Collins hit one. Friberg and Vogel hit for circuit drives for the Cubs.

Charley Robertson pitched the route for the Sox and always had a good lead. Four pitchers toiled for the National League nine—Aldridge, Fussell, Osborne and Dumovich.

The series will be resumed today at the American league park. The Sox need one more victory to win. White Sox... 000 502 000—7 7 1
Cubs... 010 000 120—4 6 0
Batteries—Robertson and Cronin; Aldridge, Fussell, Osborne, Dumovich and O'Farrell.

World's Series Umps Get $2,000 Each; Want More

New York, Oct. 16.—The umpires who worked in the world's series called on Judge Landis today and asked for an increase in pay in view of the big attendance. They now get $2,000 each.

"Don't you think the umpires are as important as the players?" The judge deliberated a minute. "No, I don't," he replied.

WHAT DAMON RUNYON SAID OF JOE BUSH

Damon Runyon, sport writer, said in part of Joe Bush:

"Bullet Joe" is not as bullety as in other days, perhaps, but he held the Giants in the hollow of his greasy old glove Sunday, while the Yankees were smearing the 'divers deliveries of the different Giant pitchers.

"Bullet Joe" now uses something besides speed in his pitching. He mixes 'em up, as the ball players say. When a young pitcher first comes into the big league he relies a lot on his natural speed, on physical power.

When he gets along in baseball years and finds his physical power is waning, he puts intelligence into his pitching—or he doesn't last.

In other years "Bullet Joe" used to throw the ball past the batter, again lapsing into baseball language. He was as speedy as they come. Now he is on the down slope of his baseball career, with the years ahead of him growing shorter.

Repeats 1913 Performance
Ten years ago "Bullet Joe," then in his first year in the big league, beat the Giants in a world series game—the first game of 1913 when he was with the Athletics, whipping the great Tesreau, the huge spitball pitcher of the Giants.

Tesreau has long since passed from the big league. Some of the 62,817 fans who watched the game Sunday, saw "Bullet Joe" in that game 10 years ago, using nothing but amazing speed. It made them feel young again as they watched "Bullet Joe" turning back the Giants inning after inning. This was positively the largest crowd that ever saw a big league ball game. All other largest crowds are infringements. There were 387 more paid admissions than on Columbus day, the total being $201,459. The "million dollar gate," the old dream of baseball, is at hand.

Game for Record Book
Bush's three-hit game against the Giants goes into the record book. Bill James of the Braves, beat the Athletics with one hit in 1914. Ed Reulback of the Cubs, let the White Sox down with two hits in 1906. Mordecai Brown of the Cubs, also pitched a two or three hit game that series.

As a class bacteria probably form a community with the greatest reputation for evil and probably they deserve it least. They are blamed for almost every form of disease and yet, as among ourselves, the useful members outnumber the criminal by many thousands to one. So closely in appearance do the good bacteria resemble the wicked ones that often it is impossible to distinguish one from the other. They are all very low forms of plant life and work by generating complex "enzymes" which bring about chemical changes. Scientists consider bacteria to be as necessary to human life as air and water! Nature has no greater scavengers, for they transform dead bodies and plants by the process popularly known as decay into suitable foods for living plants. They are coming more and more into prominence in industrial processes and the expert bacteriologist finds an increasing demand for his services.—London Mail.

BUSH LEAGUERS

By GUY LEE
Bush kept his hits well scattered; Each tenth man smote the ball; Three times was Bullet battered And Meusel did it all.

Bush kept his hits well scattered; To Gowdy he was hep, He rendered torn and tattered Young's pseudonym of Pep.

Bush kept his hits well scattered; The famous Fordham flash Snuffed out, his cap bespattered, His swat a sickly crash.

Bush kept his hits well scattered; The comic Casey's larks Were limited to splattered And courteous remarks.

Bush kept his hits well scattered; When Heinie sought the pelf His poison little mattered; He drank it all himself.

Bush kept his hits well scattered; As curves around him slid, Did Bunny feel much flattered He did, like Kelly did.

Bush kept his hits well scattered; He watched the Giants fall, And made, their glory shattered, Bush leaguers of them all.

MILLER HUGGINS PRAISES CONTROL

Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, said of Bush:

"Bullet Joe" Bush checked the Giants for us in fine style. I never saw Joe work with such ease and with such splendid control. He worked a spell over that ball and it hopped where he wished. His fast ball was wonderful, and his fork ball was the more effective because of this. It was strange that he could get the ball away from "Irish" Meusel, but "Irish," like his brother Bob, is a good hitter and liable to crack any ball pitched. He hit to all fields against Bush.

Bush worked as cleverly with his head as he did with his arm. He knew he was good when the game started so he said himself. For six innings he sailed the balls in fast enough to hop and slow enough to carry the hitters off their balance. But, true in all, he saved the greater burst of speed for the last three innings. In six of the nine innings Joe sat the Giants down in order. He fanned Bancroft in the eighth inning with as pretty a fork ball as ever broke across the plate. They fooled O'Connell completely with a curve, a speeder and a fork ball that broke through across the plate when the Californian expected Joe to waste one. That is pitching, as every ball player knows.

Bacteria.
